A Rill to Be Introduced to Allow National Banks to Issue Currency

TO THE AMOUNT OF BONDS ON DEPOSIT.

This Will Increase the Circulation Millions of Dollars.

THE SUIT AGAINST BRECKINRIDGE

Is All the Talk of Washington-Gives the Financial Situation a Back Seat-Gossip Generally.

Washington, August 13 .- (Special.)-The senate finance committee will report a bill allowing national banks to issue currency to the par value of their bonds on deposit. leading advocates of this bill express the opinion that the sen-ate will pass it without delay. Should it be come a law it will add fifteen or sixteen million dollars to the circulating currency of

The Breckinridge Scandal.

The publication of the details of the breach of promise suit filed against Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, this morning has been the gossip of all Washington to-day. Indeed it has occupied public attention, even to the exclusion of the financial question. Mr. Breckinridge himself faces the matter boldly. His fellow members are awaiting the results. Should the charges made by Miss Pollard be proven, the Kentuckian will undoubtedly be ostracised, notwithstanding bis long and useful service as a member of congress.

But his colleagues are disposed to withhold a verdict until he has made a full

The fact that Miss Pollard's attorneys. Judge Jeremiah Wilson and Mr. Calderon Carlisle, are two of the most distinguished members of the bar of Washington, causes many to believe that there is nothing on the order of blackmail in the proceedings. Hon. Jeremiah Wilson is an ex-member of congress from Indiana who has practiced law most successfully since his retirement from political life. On the one side or the other he has been identified with nearly half of the most important cases fought in the district courts during the past five years.

Mr. Calderon Carlisle is best known as sn international lawyer, a branch at which he holds a large practice apart from his profession. His name is often heard as a so ciety leader and club man. He is the American counsel for the British legation, and was one of the advocates before the United States supreme court in the Behring sea sealeries case brought nominally by the owner of the schooner Sayward. Mr. Breckinridge is well known in Atlanta, where he recently discussed the tariff ques tion at the chautauqua with Mr. Horr, of Michigan. For many years he has been known as the silver-tongued and silver-haired orator of the house. He was announced as a candidate for speaker two years ago, but retired before the contest was floroughly on. Miss Pollard has been in Washington nearly three years. She has done society work for several newspapers, and for a while held a position in the census office. She was discharged from there on the day of the death of General Sherman. The chief of Miss Pollard's division announced the Lord, the devil has gotten his own at last." For this she was immediately discharged. She is described as being a very fascinating and handsome woman.

As to the Rules.

Since the house entered upon the discussion of the silver question Friday under an order which will not exhaust itself until the close of next week for the probability that the organization of the house, by the adop-tion of rules and the appointment of committees, would not be completed for two or three weeks, has changed into almost a certainty. As yet no call for a meeting of the committee on rules has been issued, although one may be tomorrow or Tuesday.

Ope of the members of the majority committee when asked about the prospects for action on the rules, said that until the present order of the house had expired there was no need of rules. It was not possible to break in upon the silver debate with one over the adoption of rules, even were the new code ready to be reported. were the new code ready to be reported. So, in his opinion, the committee would not be in a hurry to prepare their report. The member further remarked the probabilities that the rules of the house in the fifty-second congress, which had been referred to the committee for consideration, would not be materially changed. In fact, he expected but for phase and the strength of the company of the strength of the company of the strength of the stren he expected but few changes in any nature from the system under which the last house

Carlisle and Crisp.

Secretary Carlisle spent an hour or two with Speaker Crisp at his old room at the capitol last Thursday and they probably touched upon the subject of rules in the course of their conversation. Nothing could be more natural than that Mr. Crisp should solicit an opinion from his prede cessor in the speaker's chair, especially from one who won such a high reputation as a presiding officer as did Mr. Carlisle in that position and any suggestions the secretary saw fit to make would doubtless be most carefully considered by the com-

There is but one rule about which any general interest attaches, the one governing closure. The best obtainable opinion is that there will be no radical changes from the rules enforced in the last congress, which gave the house power to end debate or prevent filibustering upon any proposition whenever the majority desired.

The Duke of Veragua a High Roller. The state department is in trouble and prepared to call upon congress to help it out. It all comes about over the enter-tainment of the duke of Veragua. The duke proved to be a high roller when visiting the world's fair and other portions of the country. Congress had made a small appropriation for the entertainment of for-eign guests to the fair and the department of state undertook to pay all the expenses of the duke out of this. But the duke flew rather too high for the department and affor entertaining foreign guess the department was compelled to intimate to him very strongly that it was time for him to return home. But the duke did not hurry his departure. When he did go and the state department had paid all his bills it was found that the distinguished guest had cost the government just $40,000 to entertain him. As that was more than the department had for the purpose congress will have to come forward and provide for the payment of the duke's bills.

Dukes come high but we must have them.

The Sonute's Line of Policy.

The Sonate's Line of Policy. At a late hour tonight Senator White, of Louisiana, a member of the "steering committee" of the democratic caucus, quoted as saying that the committee had come to no conclusion respecting the line of policy to be pursued by the majority of the senate. His understanding, however, it was said, was that the debate on the silver question, based upon one of the measures already pending, Mr. Stewart's free coinage bill or Mr. Lodge's resolution to vote on the repeal of the Sherman law on the 22d instant, would begin at once, possibly tomorrow. Senator Hoar expects to address the senate in favor of the repeal of the Sherman law Tuesday or Wednesday. Tom Johnson's Plan.

Congressman Tom Johnson, the rotund Henry George member of the Ohio delegation, comes up with a plan for the relief of the money stringency. He proposes for posite them in the United States treasury and in exchange obtain treasury notes for the face value of the bonds.

His scheme at first sounded chimerical but he has talked it up and has now united some of the extremists on both horns of the silver dilemma in favor of it. What-ever may be its merits or demerits, or even whether it is feasible at all, remains to be seen when a vote is taken on the bill he intends to present. One thing is certain it is attracting considerable at-certain it is attracting considerable attention, and many members of the house holding diametrically opposite views on the financial question seem to think it may solve the present difficulty.

His bill proposes that holders of United States bonds may deposit the same with the treasurer of the United States and receive therefor the face value of the same in treasury notes. The bonds deposited are to be registered with the name of the depositor in order that they may be redeemed at any time, but the bill provides that while said bonds are on deposit they shall draw no interest.

Mr. Johnson claims a three-fold value for his bill. It will relieve the banks. It will also relieve the depression in the commercial world and it will, for the period of its operations, save to the government the heavy interest on a part of the national debt.

The bonded debt of the United States

The bonded debt of the United State The bonded debt of the United States amounts in round numbers to $400,000,000, of which something more than half is used to back up the paper money issued by the national banks. The remaining $200,000,000 worth of bonds are held in part by individuals but to a great extent by savings banks and other trust institutions.

Mr. Johnson claims that his proposition Mr. Johnson claims that his proposition does in a single way what all other propositions aim at, and that unlike any of them after it has served its purpose of meeting the present stringency it will cease to operate; in other words that his plan offers an automatic check on the present financial difficulty, increasing and again lessening the volume of currency in accordance with the demand: cordance with the demand.

Personal Mention Mr. J. H. Hightower, of Empire, was here today. He has been to New York, where he floated the issue of the Empire and Dublin railroad bonds at 80. Mr. J. L. Anderson, of Hawkinsville, is here. He will probably be appointed to a position in the agricultural department.

IN CONGRESS THIS WEEK.

The Debate on the Financial Question Will

Washington, August 13 .- Congress has settled down to debate with a degree of expedition almost unknown in its history and the fact when she leaped to her feet, clapped her hands, and exclaimed: "Thank thing that promises well for the outcome. Fortunately for the majority in the senate, the action of the house on the silver question relieved them of the necessity of speedy and, perhaps, ill-advised action. The democratic caucus committee charged with the preparation of a plan that should secure the adherence of the united majority will, therefore, commence its labors with more deliberation than would otherwise have been possible and it is not expected now they will perfect their workinvolves consultation with many senators at each stage-much before the house has

The finance committee will probably wait upon the action of the caucus committee, and so the silver question is not likely to figure in a formal way in the proceedings of the senate this week. It is entirely possible, and even probable, that speeches will be delivered upon the subject, but if so, they will be based upon som such resolution as that introduced by Ser ator Lodge, calling for a vote upon the re-peal of the silver purchase section of the Sherman act, and not upon a bill regularly reported from the finance committee and ready for immediate action. There is a strong disposition in some quarters to fill in the time during the week by the discussion of the Lee-Mantle senatorial election case, which is in a privileged position and can be called up at any time to the displacement of other business.

The programme in the house has been definitely fixed by the adoption of the or-der introduced Friday last by Representative Bland. The time will be devoted ex-clusively to the consideration of the silver question under the rules of the last house governing general debate. Notwith-standing the apparent lack of interest in the discussion manifested by members on Saturday, the number of applicants for recognition a ready on the speaker's list demonstrates that the period allotted to the debate eleven days under the general rule-will be occupied. There are now between ninety and a hundred names enrolled by the speaker, the great majority of whom expect to talk the full hour allowed by the rule. There are a number, however, who have stipulated for shorter periods, gener ally twenty minutes or half an hour. it appears that the time for debate will be too short to accommodate all who wish to speak night sessions will be held lengthen the period, but this expedient, it is believed, will not become necessary before next week, with the expiration of which

Dr. Dunwoody said he raised no objections to Hazlehurst being summoned, but his duty to the public compelled him to give notice as soon as he discovered the fever. He was conscientious in his action and had nothing to conceal. He warned the people as soon as he knew it himself, and was surprised at their censuring him Dr. Branham said he felt he had done his duty. As evidence of the fact that Dr. Branham sincerely believed at first his cousin, the surgeon, was only sick with malarial fever, he carried him to his own home, in the same house with his wife and children and other relatives to nurse him. Surgeons Hutton and Carter of the ma-

If it is yellow fever public opinion will be with Dr. Dunwoody for announcing it so early. If it is not, public indignation will be increased. Waycross, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)— Aaron Herschkovitz, formerly of this place, but now a resident of Pensacola, Fla., arrived here yesterday and was not permitted to remain. Mayor Knight instructed Chief Crawley to require Mr. Herschkovitz to leave the city at once. Herschkovitz telf ton the 9 o'clock train for Brunswick. The mayor has published a notice to the effect that all persons coming from the yellow fever district will not be permitted to arrive in the city, but must remain ten days in the quarantine station. This timely precaution used by Mr. Knight to prevent the introduction of the dread disease into this place has been favorably commented upon — the effizens of Waycross. The notice does not apply to persons passing through the city on trains nor to others than those who come from the yellow fever districts. The gates of Way-cross are wide open to the rest of the world. Charleston Shuts Out Brunswick.

ALL HEALTHY AT PENSACOLA.

The Guards at Mr. Waite's Residence Have Been Discharged. Pensacola, Fla., August 13.-(Special.) A very favorable feature in connection with the yellow fever situation occurred at 6 o'clock p. m. this evening. The state health officer gave official instructions to Mayor Chipley that the guard could be removed, which was stationed at the residence Mr. Waite, and the family and friends confined in the house since the death of Mr. Waite as after an investigation it was decided that he did not die of yellow fever. The guards are continued at the residence of Mr. Wood, father of little Ellen Wood, as investigations have not been completed. It is now nineteen days since Captain Northup died, more than ten days since Mr. Waite and Ellen Wood were taken sick and four days since they died. Had these three persons or any one of them died of yellow fever more new cases would have existed there. At 6 o'clock p. m. no new cases have been reported to the board of health. Surgeon Carter, who arrived here yesterday, has been ordered to Brunswick, as the state surgeon at that place has reported to them cases of yellow fever at that place. This leaves Surgeon MacGruder as the only representative of the national de partment, but Surgeons Murray and Hatton are expected tomorrow. There is much rejoicing over the decision on the Waite's

THE CHOLERA REPORT.

Two Suspects Isolated-The Cases Are Mild.

Quarantine, Staten Island, N. Y., August 13, 9 p. m.—Two cholera suspects were isolated at Hoffman island early this morning, but owing to the rough weather in the lower bay, were not removed to Swinburne island hospital. If the wind moderates they will be transferred during the night. They are, Maria Reno, aged four, and Pasquale de Petrio, aged fifteen. The bacteriological examination shows that Guisippi Adamo, who was removed yesterday, is suffering from cholera, and that Francisco Caiolo, Poalo Mariano and Georquis have not developed the disease. The census of the hospital tonight shows: Cholera patients, fourteen; patients not having cholera, three; convalescent, one; suspects on Hoffman island, two. Total,

Ga, August 13.—(Special.)—The Western Union Telegraph Company is now using precaution on account of the stringency of the money market and has reduced the limit of the money transfer service in Augusta. Heretofore a sum to the amount of $100 could be sent or received by telegraph, but the limit has been lowered to $50. A number of other offices in Georgia and South Carolina have been brought to the same order applied to Augusta. A YACHT SINKS

And Three Ladies and a Child Drown in the Tennessee River.

ACCIDENT TO A PLEASURE PARTY.

While Passengers were Being Transferred From a Barge

THE YACHT WAS SUCKED DOWN.

The Unfortunate People Prominent Gerof Chattanooga-Their Bodies Not Yet Recovered. mans of Chattano

Chattanooga, Tenn., August 13.-(Special.)

This morning the Magnolia Pleasure Club left Chattanooga for a day's outing on the Tennessee river on board the steamer R. C. Gunter. A dancing barge was lashed in front of the Gunter. The Eva, a small steam yacht, with her owner, Carl Painter, and three mail guests steamed up the river a few hundred yards in advance of the Gunter. Several ladies and gentle men signaled to Mr. Painter their desire to board the Eva and an exchange of passengers was made, Mr. Porter remaining aboard the yacht and receiving Mrs. George Reif, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reif, Miss Wagner, Mrs. Charles Weber and her daughter Nellie, aged four years and Ed Ransom as his guests, while the gentlemen who were on the yacht went aboard the barge. About 4:30 o'clock the Eva signaled to the Gunter to slow down and again exchange passengers.

The Eva ran alongside the barge near the bow. Ransom threw a line to a deck hand on the barge and the prow of the Eva was brought close to the bow of the barge.

Sinking of the Eva. The seamer which had slowed down had not yet lost all speed and in the suction which had been created at the barge the Eva was quickly drawn with all on board except Ed Ransom, who climbed on the barge just as the yacht went down.

Shortly afterward Charles Reif appeared on the surface supporting Mrs. Weber, who could not swim. In her struggles she nearly succeeded in dragging Reif under. At this point William Busby jumped overboard from the barge and succeeded in holding Mrs. Weber above water until the Gunter's boat, which meanwhile had been quickly launched, came up and took the lady and her rescurer, Busby, aboard, together with Charles Reif and Carl Painter. All those who were saved were in a condition of absolute exhaustion.

Four Were Drowned. Mrs. George Reif, Mrs. Charles Reif, Miss Wagner and little Nellie Weber never came to the surface, nor have their bodies been recovered. It is thought that the yacht careen over them in such a manner as to render it impossible for them to comup. This may also account for the fact that up to midnight their bodies have not een recovered.

The steamer Gunter remained at scene of the disaster for an hour and then returned to Chattanooga, arriving at o'clock. Every effort was made by the Gunter's crew to find the whereabouts of the podies before leaving, but without success. Tomorrow morning a party of experienced river men, with all necessary appliances, will go up the river and continue the search. The victims of this disaster were among the most prominent German residents of Chattanooga. Mrs. George Reif was the wife of the president of the Chattanooga Brewing Company and daughter of Gabriel Dirr, of 1018 Colerain avenue, Cincinnati. Mrs. Charles Reif was the wife of the secretary and treasurer of the Chattanooga Brewing Company. Miss Wagner was the sister of Mrs. Charles Reif. Little Nellie Weber was the child of the traveling auditor of the Chattanooga Brewing Company.

Pensacola, Fla., August 13 .- This morn ng about 4 o'clock Mrs. A. W. Dunham the wife of a notorious character known to everybody in this section and the thou sands of seafaring men visiting this por as "Dad" Dunham, shipsmith, was found dead in her house by a boy who returned for more milk. She was a hard-working, respectable woman and made a living by her dairy. Her throat was cut and she was stabbed in several portions of the body. There were no evidences of a struggle. At her side laid Dunham, her husband. His own throat was cut and several wounds were in his abdomen. He had led a very bad life for many years. He recently tried to have his wife return to him. A few years ago he was tried for murder and one of his sons killed his brother.

UNDER THE MOVABLE SIDEWALK. Narrow Escape of a Lady at the World's

Chicago, Ill., August 13 .- (Special.)-For nearly two hours last evening Miss Lucy Griffin, of New Salem, Ind., fought a desperate battle against the waters of Lake Michigan under conditions which mark her escape from death as almost miraculous. the sight of her friends and the help of hands, Miss Griffin struggled in the darkness beneath the Casino pier, at Jackson park, until her strength gave out and unconsciousness shut out the horror of death. Then providence directed the steps of a lineman through the darkness and Miss Griffin was rescued in an apparently lifeless condition.

The lake was very rough yesterday; so rough that all of the steamers plying between Van Buren street and Jackson park, were obliged to seek a landing on the south side of the Casino pier, except the big whaleback. Miss Griffin, accompanied by a party of friends, concluded to return to the city about 6 o'clock in the evening, and taking the little steamer up at the north pier they were transferred to the Casino pier, where the whaleback was waiting for passengers. The party disembarked on the south side of the pier at a point where a passageway led beneath the platform. It is over over the tunnel constructed for the use of deck hands and the employes of the movable sidewalk, and never intended for the use to which it was put yesterday. It is as dark as a dungeon, and the plank floor is so close to the water that the waves yesterday made it slippery. No raillings protect the sides of the tunnel, a person being obliged to trust to his sense of direction and the few straggling rays of light that come through the cracks of the floor overhead. Through this passage Miss Griffin and he friends started and she fell off, fortunately getting a foothold on the pile of rock, where she clung to the piling until discovered by a lineman and rescued just as she became uncon-

Colonies of Mormons-Enforcing the Libel Law-Editors in Jail.

City of Mexico, August 13.—It is shown by official reports just made to the government that there are at present in Mexico 1,875 Mormons established in the following colonies: Juarez, in the state of Chihuahua, 550; Diaz, Chihuahua, 575; Pachaca, Chihuahua, 300; Dublin, Chihuahua, 250; Sonora, state of Oaxaca, 200. All of these colonies are doing well from an agricultural point of view, though the drought last year caused them considerable losses. The Chihuahua Mormans are preparing to sink artesian wells on a large scale.

The libel law in Mexico continues to be enforced with a vigor that makes newspapers very cautious about what they publish. The latest victims of the law are Carlos Gavino, Antonio Hoffman and Joaquin Guerro, manager, reporter and editor respectively, of the paper known as The Oposicien, who have just been condemned to six months imprisonment and $200 fine, counting from May of this year. The press of the paper was not confiscated. A private dispatch has been received here from Paris, France, stating that Manuel Palacios, of the Mexican police, who went to Paris lately to receive from the French police the person of Rafael Ford, stamp collector of Hermosilla, who absoonded a few months ago with $50,000, will also bring back with him Dr. Don Sylvestre Paumgartner, for some time a resident of this city, and who made bimself somewhat notorious lately in an affair with Mr. Gustavo Baz, Mexican charge d'affaires in Paris.

A MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE.

Large Manufactories in Minneapolis Destroyed By Fire.

Minneapolis, Minn., August 13.—Two fires, presumably the work of incendiaries, destroyed over a million dollars' worth of property this afternoon. The fires broke out in a sable in the rear of the Cedar Lake Ice Company's house and soon spread to the icensuse proper. From there, fanned by a quick breeze, it spread to Clark's box Eactory and then destroyed the boiler works of Lintz, Connell & Co., including a $27,000 riveting machine, the only one west o fChicago. Lenhart's Union wagon works were totally consumed; also a quantity of lumber belonging to various firms. The Cedar Lake Ice Company loses $50,000; Clark's box factory, $30,000; Lintz, Connell & Co., $60,000; Union wagon works, $15,000. On this there is a total insurance of about half.

While this fire was at its height an alarm was turned in from the lumber district at the other end of the island. Boom island, as the place is called, was a mass of wood and lumber piles belonging to Nelson, Tenny & Co., and Backus & Co. This was ny & Co., and Backus & Co. This was blazing fiercely and fanned by a brisk wind, the flames soon spanned the narrow stretch of water and began cating their way at their big saw mills and residence in the vicinity of the river bank. One after another the planing mills of the Wilcox Company, the Chatterton mill, the Backus mill, the Hove mill, Smith & Corrigan and Nelson, Tenny & Co., felt the blast of the fire and were either totally destroyed or badly damaged. The flames left a space of blackness through Marshall street and were practically stopped by the big brick structure of the Minneapolis Brewing Company, although their loss is put at $110,000.

All along Marshall street and through that entire section are small frame houses occupied by laboring sawmill men and they went like tinder when the flames first struck them, but the residents had ample time to move their belongings. In all 112 houses were destroyed.

Although a general alarm was turned in the entire city department proved inadequate to the occasion and aid was asked from St. Paul and that city promptly responded and sent over two steamers and a hose cart and did excellent service. The fire on Boom island was burning fiercely at a late hour tonight and the only hope seems to lie in letting it burn itself out. Italian Cadets Arrive.

New York, August 13.—The three Italian war ships, which arrived here Saturday afternoon with 300 naval cadets on board, were visited today by about two hundred people, all apparently of Italian descent. About 5 o'clock the cruiser San Francisco, which had just rates nead from Boston, passed the Italian ships and anchored off Forty-second street. As she passed she fired a salute to the vice admiral and his fleet. This was at once returned, and the usual ceremonial calls between the commanding officers quickly followed. It has been fourteen years since the annual cruise of the Italian cadets brought them to this side of the Atlantic. Within a few days the cadets will start for a visit to the world's fair at Chicago, going in squads.

FOUND ON THE TRACK

A Sensation in Fort Valley Yesterday

THE BODY OF A NEGRO ON THE TRACK.

A Train Had Passed Over Him, But It I Believed He Was Murdered and Placed There.

Fort Valley, Ga., August 13.-(Special.) The usual quiet of this place on Sundays was broken this morning by the announce ment that a well-known negro had been killed by a train in front of the Harris house this morning about 1:20 o'clock At an arly hour quite a crowd had gathered around the corpse to view the mangled remains, and as time went by the crowd increased until it was estimated that between 400 and 700 were present.

Coroner Hurst arrived about 8 o'clock, secured a jury and commenced the investigation. Engineer Fort McAfee was the first witness examined, who in substance, testified as follows:

"I was an engineer on a freight train running from Columbus, Ga., to Macon I stopped at the junction when the nan came from the rear of the train, changed the switch and let me in. I then pulled through the switch, stopped for the switchman to get aboard, and as I started up again I saw a bulge between the tracks and something white just outside the rail. This I thought was where a new tie was put in and paid no more attention to it until I felt my engine strike something. 1 running only about two miles an hour and stopped my train after running only a few feet, got down from my engine, told my fireman to bring a light; that I thought we had run over a person. I found the body of a person between the rear of the tender and the car next to it.

"I felt the body and found it was cold. In a few minutes my conductor and porter came op. They examined and felt of the body. About this time a negro man came along and I sent him for Marshal Cooper, who reached the spot in a short time, when I requested him to feel of the body, which he did, and he found it cold.

Fireman James Young, Conductor Floyd Martin and Porter Matt Williams gave in substantially the same evidence, only they did not see the body until after the engine

A Post Mortem Examination.

This evidence caused the jury to call in Dr. Mitchell, one of Fort Valley's most prominent physicians, who is acknowledged a fine surgeon from his long experience as railroad surgeon in examining mutilated bodies, to make a post mortem examina-tion. his examination resulted in finding two fractures in the dead man's skull, made apparently with a sharp instrument which, Dr. Mitchell says might or might not have produced death, but in his opinion, the deceased might have run off after receiving the blows and died from blood clotting on, or concussion of the brain, or from apoplay from being drunk, as it was shown from other evidence that the deceased was from other evidence that the deceased was drinking in the earlier part of the night. The dead negro was named Ted Pres-ton and was favorably known as an in-offensive, polite negro, possessing profound respect for his white superiors.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury. The matter was very thoroughly investi-

The matter was very thoroughly investigated by the coroner's jury and some facts were brought out which I do not care to give the public just yet. The following verdict was rendered:

We, the jury, find that Fed Preston came to his death from wounds inflicted by unknown hands, and that our opinion is the Central railroad did not cause his death.

M. C. GREENE, Foreman.

After the verdict had been rendered a party of searching negroes found a streak of blood some ten feet in length on the freight depot platform, leading in the direction of the track, where the engine struck Preston's body. There was no blood found between the edge of the platform and where Preston's body was seen lying by Engineer McAfee, nor was there any blood to flow from the body after it was cut in twain.

nor was there any blood to now hood body after it was cut in twain.

Another evidence that the body was dead before the engine struck it was brought out that Preston was seen last night, between 11 and 12 o'clock, and who he was with, and it is intimated that some arrests will follow, but up to 5 o'clock none have been made.

arrests will follow, but up to 5 o'clock none have been made.

A personal inquiry among the negroes reveals the fact that they are not satisfied to let this matter drop as it is and if there is no arrests made now the matter will, in all probabilty, be taken up by Houston's next grand jury. It is very evident that Preston was killed between 12 and 1 o'clock, and it is not believed that any one in the crowd he was last seen with had anything to do with his death but every one believes he was murdered and put on the track or else received the fatal blow and ran from his adversaries and fell dead on the track, as his hand-kerchief was found with considerable blood on it. It stuck in his vest pocket. Crowds of negroes remained around the spot where Preston's body was found the greater part of the day, not even rain, about 2 o'clock, dispersing them.

of the day, not even rain, about 2 o'clock, dispersing them.

The law-abiding people here, both white and black, regret this killing very much, and there is no telling the future developments in the case. Preston has been a faithful hand for the Albaugh, Gpa, Orchard Company, and was held in high esteem by Manager J. B. James, who says his company will supplement any reward the state offers for the parties who gave Preston the fatal blow. Governor Northen will be asked tomorrow to offer a suitable reward for the murderer of inoffensive Ted Preston.

CHANGES ON THE GEORGIA ROAD.

New Schedules to Go Into Effect Next

New Schedules to Go Into Effect Next Sunday.

Augusta, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—
The Constitution was first and correct in Friday's announcement that the Georgia railroad fast train between Augusta and Atlanta would be taken off. It will be discontinued a week from today, the 20th, when a new schedule will go into effect for nearly all trains on the road. This news is reliable and official, for it was furnished your correspondent by Acting General Manager Scott, who, when asked if the fast train would be discontinued for any other reason besides to reduce expenses, said the train was superfluous.

reason besides to reduce expenses, said the train was superfluous.

Mr. Scott says a schedule which will operate better for Augusta and Atlanta merchants will be put into effect. There will be two daily trains between Augusta and Atlanta—a day and night train. The schedule time for arrival and departure, however, has not yet been settled upon. In place of the fast train there will be two accommodation trains—one for Atlanta and one for Augusta.

accommodation trains—one for Atlanta and one for Augusta.

The Harlem accommodation, when the new schedule is put on will run up to Camak and it will arrive here in the morn camar and leave in the afternoon and it will give the people between Camar and here about six hours to spend in the city. The Atlanta accommodation train will run down to Union Point and give eight hours in Atlanta

She Took Laudanum.

Macon, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—Carrie Johnson, a colored girl, took laudanum this salaries of the employes of the road. He said there would be no reduction in salaries, but the reduction will be made only by cutting off all unnessessary employes, about two hundred in all. Notwithstuding that, however, a reduction of 25 per cent has been made in the wages of employes in the freight department here.

With all the changes Manager Scott said the efficiency of the road would not be impaired at all. While the hours of the new passenger schedules have not yet been announced, I learn they will be so fixed that the morning train from Atlanta will arrive here between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning. This change will also call for a change in the South Carolina schedule, which always connects with the Georgia road, and General Manager Ward, of the Carolina road, will be here tomorrow to confer with Manager Scott to agree upon a new schedule.

It is understood by the proposed change that the morning train for Charleston will leave here at 4 o'clock. The afternoon schedule will only be slightly changed, as it is expected the day train from Atanta will arrive here about 3:30 o'clock in the af-

TOOK THEM BY SURPRISE.

Montgomery, Ala., August 13.—(Special.)— Montgomery was astounded this morning by the aunouncement that the old banking firm of Josiah Morris & Co. had executed a deed of assignment to John C. Hurter and W. F. of assignment to John C. Hurter and W. F. Pelzer, assignees. The exact statement of the bank's condition has not yet been made public, and will not be known until the assignees complete the inventory, which they will begin to make tomorrow, but it is unofficially stated that the liabilities are $1,100.000 while the assets transferred to the 100,000, while the assets transferred to the assignees are between two and two and a half millions.

assignees are between two and two and a haif millions.

The bank was the oldest in the city, having been in continuous operation since some time in the fifties, and had successfully weathered every stringency for nearly three generations. It was founded by Josiah Morris, and was personally conducted by him up to the time of his death, two years ago, since which time F. M. Billings has been the active manager of the business.

The assignment was caused by the fact that public confidence in the stability of banks had been shaken by the failures throughout the country, and, in consequence, a heavy drain has been in pugress for the past two months, it being estimated that in the past sixty days $400,000 of deposits have been withdrawn from the bank.

The management met every demand as long as it was possible, and made herculean efforts within the past week or ten days to secure additional supplies of currency from New York, but found yesterday that no money was to be had, and suspension was the only thing left. The fact of the assignment was not breathed in this city until after midnight, and its announcement this morning was a veritable thunder clap. One of the gentlemen named as assignee entertained at his home last night and the guests tarried until nearly midnight, and not a word was breathed by the assignee of the disaster, and his guests yere as much surprised this morning as any citizens at the astounding news.

A Large Check Was Expected.

A Large Check Was Expected.

A Large Check Was Expected.

The bank was the depository of the Louisville and Nashville road for all offices on the line reporting to and remitting to the Montroad bad a large balance to its credit and would have made a check on the bank on Monday for $40,000, with which to start out the pay train on the 15th over the divisions which are paid from the pay car which goes out from this city. It is stated authoritatively that the assets of Josiah Morris & Co. will, allowing for all shrinkages, amount to two dollars for every dollar of Indebtedness. This evening the depositors inaugurated a movement looking to taking the bank out of the hands of the assignees and giving it back to Mr.-F. M. Billings and let him resume business at once. No depositor has opposed this proposition and it is probable that it will be agreed to unanimously.

Meeting of Bankers. Meeting of Bankers.

The Montgomery bankers held a meeting today and orgalized the Montgomery Clearing House Association. They further agreed that after tomorrow the banks would pay only $25 on any amount and adopted a form of clearing house certificate to be used to relieve the pressure.

A mass meeting of citizens will be held A mass meeting of citizens will be held early tomorrow morning, at which the conservative citizens will counsel forbearance and leniency in the dealings with debtors and pledge the people to stick up to and help the banks in their efforts to withstand the shock. It is stated that the attorneys of the city will hold a meeting also, at which they will pledge themselves not to take steps to enforce collections against the people until there is improvement in the financial situation.

DEMANDED A LOAN

And on Being Refused Shot the Ex Minister.

Paris, August 13.-M. Lockroy, a forme cabinet minister, was fired at yesterday by a man named Moore, a notorious socialist. Lockroy, at the time of the shooting, was ascending a staircase in a house in the Rue Charrone, where his electoral committee was sitting. Moore, who was unknown to the ex-minister, stopped him and de-manded a loan of 10 francs. Lockroy re-fused to give him the money whereupon the man rushed at him and fired at his right breast with a revolver. Lockroy fainted. He was taken to his home as soon sible. Moore was arrested. He had as possible. Moore was arrested. He had made himself notorious by attending polit-ical meetings and hawking rhymes of his own composition.

Upon making an examination of the wound the surgeons found that his flesh had been badly torn, but they could not determine whether the bullet had located in his breast or not. They have ordered him to have a rest for ten days. Moore, who is a socialist, had lain in wait for his victim for two hours. Lockroy had refused to identify himself with the cabmen's strike and Moore shot him in revenge.

A FEMALE EVANGELIST MOBBED.

Mrs. Rice Attacked by a Crowd of Roughs in Chicago, August 13.-(Special.)-Mrs. Emma Rice, wife of the cowboy evangelist, Justin Rice, was mobbed by a crowd of foughs while she was attempting to hold religious exercises in time open air on West Madison street last night. The crowd has made several attempts to break up the meetings before, and police protection asked for, but for some reason, not furnished. Rotten fruit and other articles were thrown at the woman, and when the collection was taken up a was made and some one dealt her a blow that felled her to the ground beneath the feet of the mob. The police arrived in time to save her life, but she was seriously bruised. rush was made and some one dealt her

The Bombay Riots

The Bombay Riots.

Bombay, August 13.—The riots which broke out in this city a few days ago are extending. Up to the present time, more than fifty persons are known to have been killed and fully 1,200 have been arrested. Burlai parties today were accompanied by strong pickets, in spite of which they were frequently attacked by religious opponents. Further reinforcements of cavalry and infantry have arrived from Poona and are in bivouac in the streets. The queen has sent a telegram to Lord Harris, governor of Bombay, expressing grief on account of the riots. The newspapers refer to the troubles in mild language, and deplore the fact that troops were not called out earlier.

Respected but Green Citizens. Knoxville, Tenn., August 13.—(Special.)—C. S. Hackworth a clever green goods swindler who has been working in Anderson county for a Cincinnati bunco firm, was arrested and bound over to court here Saturday. He would represent to his purchasers that he would give them $3,000 for $300. He secured about $1,000 from the unsuspecting, but did not produce the goods and his victims squeated on him. Among them were Rev. Levi Seiber, J. B. Miller, H. H. Dougherty and Deputy Sheriff Bunch, all respected citizens.

Memphis, Tenn., August 13.—Neither the certified check nor the clearing house certificate system will be adopted by Memphis banks. The reserve carried is from 55 to 93 per cent of deposits, or an average of 70 per cent. The best information obtainable is that no possible contingency can arise by which the banks will be unable to pay dollar for dollar on demand.

FIRED UPON HIM.

ATTACK HIS HOUSE IN THE NIGHT

Send Bullets Whizzing Through It-Mrs. Tykes Wounded During the Firing-Warrants Sworn Out.

Camilla, Ga., August 13.-(Special.)-Tuesday Alec Godwin, a resident of this place, swore out a warrant against John Bodiford and William Maxwell for running a still and selling liquor without license. Godwin was notified after the affidavit had been sworn out, that threats had been made against him, but did not think the matter sufficiently important to keep him in town. On Friday he decided to visit his farm, which is in the lower part of the county He was detained by business and remained with his tenant, Mr. Tyers. Some time after the family and Godwin had retired they were awakened by the report of guns, and they could hear small shot striking the

Every one was very much alarmed, but as the shot did not perforate the walls they were in no danger. When the small arms were laid aside by the attacking party and forty-four Winchester rifles brought to bear on the house the danger to the occupants was increased, and they sought refuge by protecting themselves as best they could behind the furniture.

The firing continued for some time, and one room of the house has at least one hundred bullet holes in it. Mrs. Tyers was slightly wounded in the side.

Godwin has sworn out warrants against John Bodiford, William Maxwell, Ringo Godwin, a son-in-law of Maxwell, Martin Harrell, Wade Kelley and John Brinson. There were others in the attacking party whom God vin could not identify.

A note was found on the gate the next morning notifying Godwin, if alive, that he would be hung. Warrants have been sworn out against the parties named, and Deputy Sheriff Jones and others left to make the arrests last night. Nothing has been heard from them.

BALDWIN'S MURDER TRIAL.

The Evidence, Judge's Charge and the Mi trial Ordered.

Milledgeville, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—
About the 1st of May, according to a witness for the defendant in the murder trial here, Goodwin stated that Upshaw's wife had been guilty of infidelity to her husband. Two weeks later, the men met at Stevens's pot-tery, and, without a word, Upshaw fired one barrel of his gun, emptying it into Goodwin's back, who turned and prayed for win's back, who turned and prayed for his life, only to receive the other load in his head and face.

The argument on both sides Wednesday was of the highest order of eloquence, and the battle was fought with desperation by both sides. The judge's charge to the jury, was probably the strongest that has fallen from judicial lips in the state. Every feature of mygder and of justifiable homicide was of murder and of justifiable homicide was set forth so plainly that the great crowd present were sure the jury would not be out a minute. He stated that no amount of slander and no mere words would justify one man in taking another's life.

In the jury room a war-like rivalry be tween sentiment and law sprung up among the jurors, and, after three days sitting, they were called out Saturday evening and a mistrial declared by Judge Jenkins.

It is understood that the jury were evenly divided between convicting and acquitting, and that six of them maintained to the last that there was a "missing link" in the law as to the protection of a woman's characte which was filled only by a double-barreled shotgun.

The case of Henry Kittrell for the murde of Levi Ross, twenty-three years ago, re sulted in an acquittal, owing to the death and removal of human witnesses and the destruction by fire of all records of the case. It was developed in the trial that the coroner's jury was composed entirely of negroes and that is the only case in the history of Baldwin county where a negro has ever served on a coroner's jury.

PEARY HEARD FROM.

He Is Having a Hard Time in Procuring Dogs.

St. Johns, N. F., August 13 .- The Lab rador mail steamer reports having spoken Peary's steamer Falcon at Davis inlet northern Labrador August 2d. She had been storm bound two days. Peary had been engaged in visiting the coast settlements for the previous two weeks endeavoring to get dogs, but had not succeeded and ther proposed visiting the Moravian settlements to the north and then going to Disco, as he was certain to get dogs there. His plan had been seriously disarranged through the unexpected delay. The steamer reports also a volcanic eruption at Cape Harrison, Lab-rador, Wednesday, August 2d. Fishermen engaged off the cape heard great noises and saw the whole cliff afire. They landed and found a portion of the hill had collapsed and immediately flames, stones and cinders were issuing therefrom. The steamer's officers report having seen a fire many miles away. The flames were intense and plain-ly visible at night. As there are no woods, forests or buildings near by to cause this, t might be of a purely volcanic origin. In the opinion of those at St. Johns ac quainted with the locality, the affair is the result of the agitation of the earth's internal fires, as Labrador is not far north of the sphere of volcanic action.

WILL STOP BUYING MEATS.

Effect of the Recent Demands of Westers Houses.

Houses.

Augusta, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—
Augusta wholesale merchants are affected the same as Atlanta merchants by western houses demanding cash money by express for their goods. I called on Mr. Paul Mustin and asked him what would be the effect of western demands here. He said our merchants would stop buying meats, as banks will refuse to give them cash to ship it off. If the currency is all sent away there would be no money to handle the cotton crop. Mr. Mustin says he has quit buying meat on this account and says all others, with possibly one or two exceptions, would stop buying. The effect is he only sells for cash and does not accept checks for his goods. Some few thousand dollars, possibly $10,000, was shipped by express for meats, but that's over with now. Mr. Mustin says the people would rather do without meat for awhile and hold to their cash and he sums it up as a temporary suspension of business. rary suspension of business.

CAPTURED BY CORDENAS.

The Revolution in Coahuila, Mexico-Federal

Galveston, Tex., August 13.—A special from Eagle Pass to The News says about 200 federal troops were unloaded at Sabi-nas, state of Coahulia, and Peyotts on the nas, state of Coahulia, and Peyotts on the Mexican international this morning. It is reported that a train load of cavalry will follow tonight to be distributed along the line of the road. Cordena's party captured Nava today and turned out the Golaw officials and took charge of this office. This places them in possession of most all the towns surrounding Piedras Negras. What action the federal troops will take is purely surmised. About 200 of Cordena's men are camped three miles from Peyotts station where the troops unloaded this morning. It is not believed that the federal troops will be antagonized as both factions proclaim their adherence to the federal government. Cordena is a candidate governor, who heretofore prevented meetings in behalf of his opponent.

Savannah, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—Mack Rathbun stopped here at the Screven house yesterday, and some time during the night left the hotel. Nobody knew at the time where he had gone. He registered at the Screven under the name of Luther Williams. Er Lawshe, his partner, arrived this morning and found him gone. He began a search but falled to locate him. He received a telegram, however, this afternoon from Charleston stating that Rathbun had been found there, and Lawshe left tought for Charleston, overloyed that he was so soon to find him. Nobody here noticed anything wrong whatever, and nothing was said about the matter until he mysteriously disappeared from here, as he had registered under an assumed name and no one took him for Rathbun.

A LIVELY TIME

In Worth County Shooting Burglars and Mad Dogs.

Albany, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—Mr. W. F. Floyd, a young man living near Mercer's nill in Worth county, had a tarilling experience Friday night with world-be burglars. About 11 o'clock Mr. Floyd was aroused by the barking of his dog, when hastily arming himself with a dog, when hastily arming himself with a brace of pistols he sallied out and found two negroes in his yard. As soon as they found themselves discovered they ran and Floyd immediately began to shoot at them. One of them was shot down twice, but ow

At the same time Mr. Floyd was shooting at the negroes, Mr. Pearson, a close neighbor had a thrilling experience with twe mandogs, which invaded his yard, and which he succeeded in killing, after they had bitten his dog. About thirty-five shots were fired by the two men at the same time which gave the balance of the neightime. time, which gave the balance of the neigh-borhood the impression that an unexpected riot was in progress.

DULL DAY AT THE FAIR. A Smaller Attendance Than Any Day Since

Chicago, August 13.—The exposition grounds were open today, about half of the usual force of the bureau of admissions being stationed at the gates. There was nothing of interest to attract visitors and few of them were at the fair, less, perhaps, than on any day since it was opened. The doors of the big buildings were open and people only strolled through to avoid the rays of the sun, as there was nothing in the interior open to view. On the door of the Indiana state building was a card bearing the words: "This building not open today," and other state houses were locked as securely as Indiana's. The Midway plaisance was the only place where the few who attended could interest themselves. The only event of the day was a dinner served the members of the Whitechapel Club at the White Horse inn by George Francis Train. the Opening.

New Richmond, Ohio, Burning Cincinnati, O., August 14.—It is learned here by telephone since midnight from New Richmond, Ciermont county, Ohio, twenty-five miles up the Ohio river from here, that the main business block of the town was burned. This block included the Springer head, two draws stores. note, the national bank, two drug stores, several dry goods stores and other business houses, the best in the town. The block is entirely wiped out and the fire is spreading. A fire company and engine are on the way to New Richmond on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. They will be ferried to Naw Richmond from the hotel, the national bank, two drug stores be ferried to New Richmond from the station on the Kentucky side of the river.

Died in Oglethorpe.

Oglethorpe, Gat., August 33.—(Special.)—
Thursday at midnight at the suburban home of his brother-in-law, Dr. T. P. Oilver, Elliott Gantt Jones passed peacefully away to the great beyond. Candid, courageous and noble, with no enemies, but hosts of friends, he lived and died. He was for several years the head bookkeeper for John J. Woodside, a leading real estate man, and resigned that position to try and regain his lost health and strength. He spent a season in Florida, but to no perceptible benefit to his health, and coming here to his devoted and wonderfully attentive sister, he was forced to succumb to the ravages of consumption.

Has Been Made Superintendent. Augusta, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—Mr. Anderson, who has been general agent of the Port Royal and Western Carolina railroad at Greenville, S. A Dense Fog in the English Channel. London, August 13.—A dense fog covered the English channel all Saturday night and up to noon today. Such a phenomenon in the month of August is almost abnormal. Fog whistles fore and aft were kept going un-ceasingly. Several casualties are reported.

Disappearance of a Treasurer. Lincoln, Neb., August 13.—A Journal special from O'Nelll, Holt county, says that Barrett Scott, county treasurer, has disappeared and an investigation of his accounts shows a shortage of about $60,000. It is thought Scott has gone to Mexico.

Suicide of a Methodist Minister Liftcoin, Neb., Angust 13.—S. H. ROBINSON CAUGHT.

The Slaver of Deputy Sheriff Russell in Whitfield County.

ARRESTED NEAR NEWPORT, TENNESSEE.

Brought to Dalton and Locked Up-Says His Cousin Is the Cause of His Being Arrested.

Dalton, Ga., August 13 .- (Special.)-George Robinson, murderer of Deputy Sheriff Russell Powell, near Var nell's, in this county some three weeks back, was caught near Newport, Tenn., yesterday and brought to Dalton today Sheriff Frazier, of this county, did the work, and was helped by a cousin of Robinson's who betrayed him to the sheriff. The cousin got Robinson to go a short distance up the road for him, and when a short distance from the house he was confronted by Sheriff Frazier. It is said he has declared since his capture that but for his cousin leading him unarmed into the sheriff's hands he would not have been taken alive. He is in Dalton jail and seems to take things coolly.

Precise Information for Poets.

From The Chicago Record.
"This stanza occurs in one of Mr. Rudyard Kipling's recent bits of verse:

This is the horrible story Told as the twilight fails, As the monkeys walk together

Holding each other's tails.'
"Poets should conserve the purity and elegance of a language. Mr. Kipling commits a grave error in representing the monkeys as 'holding each other's tails,' when, presumably he means 'holding one another's tails.' Do you not regard this as a serious biow at our language?

That depends. Maybe there were but two monkeys, in that case the peet is correct.

That depends. Maybe there were but two monkeys; in that case the poet is correct. If there were more than two, the poet should have said "holding one another's tails," unless, in sooth, the poet, recognizing the demands of rhythm, chose to avail himself of that license which is accorded to poets in the construction of their wares. In prosaic life, monkeys, if outnumbering two, cannot carry each other's tails. In the reakm of poesy, however, monkeys—no matter how many there may be of them—are privileged to carry "each other's tails" in full of all demand of rhyme and rhythm, without recourse to reason or benefit of ciergy.

What Is Boneblack?

The government appropriates millions of dollars for the information of the farmer. The experiment stations, in their estimates of the value of fertilizers, often base their valuations on the value of boneblack, which is by far the most expensive form of puosphate of lime found in the market. Even one who has paid attention to the subject knows that 90 per cent of commercial fertilizers have for their base South Carolina rock.

While in Florida I saw phosphates and have samples of them which show from 70 to 80 per cent of bone phosphate, i. e., tribasic phosphates of lime, which differs only from boneblack in not having charcoal with it, which gives the black color to the boneblack. If a little of the boneblack is exposed to red heat the charcoal is burnt of that is, oxidized into carbonic acid, leaving the white ashon the shovel. The laws of memical comountations are fixed, and no chemist can tell whether phosphoric acid is made from boneblack, South Carolina rock or Florida deposits, apetite or asparagras rock. All have the same composition, namely, seventy-two parts of phosphoric acid whether phosphoric acid is made from bone-black, South Carolina rock or Florida deposits, apetite or asparagras rock. All have the same composition, namely, seventy-two parts of phosphoric acid.

In other words, phosphate of lime is about half phosphoric acid and seventy-four parts of lime. It is true that the boneblack has some charcoal in it, due to the fact that the oil and gelatine of the raw bone is burnt out in retorts depuded of air. The carbon, not being volatile and having no oxygen to be converted into carbonic acid, remains behind deposited in the cells of the bone, giving the black color. Examining samples of bone-black on exhibition at a recent fair, I found a bottle labeled boneblack was merely a cheap phosphate colored with lampblack or some other cheap form of carbon. Tharcoal dust is a most excellent substitute for the carbon from oil and gelatine for this purpose. While I had the honor of being one of the trustees of the Maryland Agricultural college and experiment station I tried hard to introduce some reforms, but found I had impracticable parties to deal with and retired in disgust. I hope the radical change made in our station will prove of benefit to the farmers of Maryland and show them what can be done with acres of poor, worn-out land, not by the application of high-grade phosphate, so called, whether made from boneblack, mineral phosphate, with charcoal dust. or Cricago bone. Without carbonaceous matter, which includes all combinations of which carbon is the base, no deposits of sand and clay can be made to grow crops. Encourage the compost pile. One error they all make is placing the value of such material entirely on the nitrogen, phosphorus and potash and overlooking the carbon. The proper treatment of the compost pile requires chemical knowledge, and I propose giving you a paper on the subject of manures.

His Carriage Driven by Naphtha. From The Springfield Daily Republican.
C. L. Simonds, of Lynn, has made a steam carriage for his own use that will make ten carriage for his own use that will make ten miles an hour. The carriage weighs only 400 pounds, and can carry two persons at a time. It has the appearance of an ordinary carriage in front, except there are no provisions made for a horse. The wheels are of cycle make and are four in number. The hind wheels are forty-three inches and the front wheels are thirty-six inches, with rubber tires. The boiler and engine are just in the rear of the seat and give the carriage the appearance of a fire engine. The steam generates in what is called a porcupine boiler, which weighs 100 pounds. The steam is made from naphtha flames from three jets. The naphtha is kept in a cylinder, enough to last for seven hours, and there is a water tank that will hold ten gallons. The steering part consists of a crank wheel on the footboard, so that the engineer can steer and attend to the engine at the same time.

John P. Love, an old and respected citi-zen of this city, was buried this week. He leaves a large and influential family of children and grandchildren to mourn his In view of this state of affairs a compromise was reached by which the New England Security Company was to pay Mrs. Annie Tarver $8,000 in each and give her 650 acres of land, of the 16,270 acres to be selected by her. The $8,000 was promptly paid her and the company proceeded to give her a quit-claim deed to the 650 acres, and the company to take possession of the remainder of the land, amounting to nearly 16,000 acres. Now comes Mrs. Tarver, who destited a warrantee deed instead of a quit-claim deed to the 650 acres, which she has celected of what is known as the Hunter tract, and on which a mortgage had existed. In the meanwhile the Tarvers have remained in possession of a large part of the 16.2.0 acres, and though six different decrees have been endered in court against them, plaintiffs have not been able to dispossess them. The New England company did not care to give a warrantee deed to the 650 acres and comes into court and asks that the Tarvers be made to give up possession in accordance with the decree previously rendered. Judge Speer decided that the Tarvers need not give possession to the balance of the property until the company has made a proper deed to Mrs. Tarver. On this point the New England company will appeal. The company has paid out about $60,000. What is known as Adams Park was a part of the Tarver estate. About a week ago The Constitution stated that Judge Speer had passed an order making all-the fresh ment men in the city parties complainant to the original bill of the Georgia Packing Company and W. L. Henry vs. the mayor and council of the city of Macon, and enjoined the defendants from enforcing the ordinances which prohibited the meat men selling meats during certain hours anywhere in the city, except at the market. The butchers sell western meat, and, therefore, Judge Speer held that the city ordinances were contrary to the constitution and by-laws of the United States. The city authorities do not like States. One of the most delightful entertainments of the season was given by Colonel and Mrs. B. Z. Herndon* this week at their home.

Three marriages in high life are booked for Dalton in the early fall.

Both our hotels are filling up with south Georgia and Florida people. They are learning to appreciate the priceless ozone that the city ordinances were contrary to the constitution and by-laws of the United States. The city authorities do not like Judge Speer's decision, and the opinion of a number of lawyers and others is that Judge Speer has no jurisdiction in the matter and should have exercised none. The city will appeal the case to the court of appeals and one of the points of argument will be that Judge Speer has no jurisdiction. Mr. Marion Erwin is attorney for the meat men. In his intervention, a copy of which has been served on Mayor Price, he attaches to the intervention, as Exhibit A. a printed newspaper statement or interview of City Attorney Patterson as illustrative of the declared intention of the mayor and council toward the meat men, and the necessity for the immediate protection of the court.

Interveners aver that since the interlocutory decree of the honorable court restraining the mayor and council of the city of Macon from enforcing against the original complainants the ordinances, the enforcement of which was enjoined by said decree, on the ground that said ordinances were in contravention of the constitution and laws of the United States, the said defendants, through their officers, have threatened to enforce said ordinances, so held to be unconstitutional and void, against the interveners with arrest and punishment if interveners should conduct their business in a manner prohibited by said ordinances.

He was fixing waxends, prehis business. He was fixing waxends, preparatory to half-soling a pair of shoes and when he finished he went to a glass jar and called out "Jersey! John got the shoe, strapped it between his legs, set Jersey on it, and before you could catch your breath the mosquito had bored holes in the sole of the shoe, clear to the toe, and sat cross-legged waiting for John to catch up. John remarked that since he taught Jersey how to assist him he has had no use for an awl.

delay are full of danger. Consumption is Lung-Scrofula. You can prevent it, and you can cure it, if you haven't waited too long, with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That is the most potent blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder that's known to medical science. For every disease that has to be reached through the blood, like Consumption, for Scrofula in all its forms, Weak Lungs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all severe, lingering Coughs, it is the only guaranteed remedy. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

The proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy know that their medicine perfectly and permanently cures Catarrh. To prove it to you, they make this offer: If they can't cure your Catarrh, no matter what your case is, they'll pay you $500 in cash

THIEF CAPTURED

Who Had Just Finished a Term in the Penitentiary.

A CHASE IN THE STREETS OF ATHENS.

The Thief Caught and Turned Over to the Officers-He Will Wear Convict Stripes Again.

Athens, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)— Stokes Norman, one of the most notorious and desperate negro thieves in northeast Georgia, was captured here vesterday in the very heart of the city after one of the most exciting and at the same time one of the most ridiculous races it has ever been my privilege to see.

Norman was recently released from the penitentiary, where he had just finished serving out a six months' sentence for stealing, but it didn't cure him in the least, for on Friday, when he saw a nice looking coat and vest with a gold watch chain hanging from one of the vest pockets, he nanging from one of the vest pockets, he quietly appropriated the whole outfit to himself and quickly went away.

The coat and vest and contents were the property of Mr. W. A. Harris, who had hung them on a tree while he busied himself with some little work around his house. When he noticed that they had been stolen he at once notified the police, who began a sharp investigation.

Mr. Harris is an employe of the Henderson Warchouse Company, and, of course.

derson Warehouse Company, and, of course, every one at the warehouse knew of the theft. Norman did not know that Mr. Harris worked there and early the next morning he went to the warehouse in order to sell the watch to one of the negro workmen there. He offered the watch to Dock Rowland for $1. Rowland recognized the watch as belonging to Mr. Harris and in order to catch Norman accepted the watch for $1 and asked Norman to wait a minute until he could go in the ris and in order to catch Norman accepted the watch for $1 and asked Norman to wait a minute until he could go in the office and get the money.

Mr. Harris was in the office and Rowland notified him that the thief was outside and gave him his watch. Mr. Harris ran out to catch him, but as soon as Norman saw him he ran as hard as he could right down Clayton street into the heart of the city, followed by two policemen and everybody on the streets.

One policeman ordered him to stop and when he would not he shot at him, but missed him. Another policeman headed him off, and, seeing no other way of escape, he jumped into a large excavation which is being cut out for the basement and foundation of a large four-story building which Mr. R. L. Moss is having built. The policemen and two or three citizens jumped in after him, but as the place was about ten feet deep the majority of the spectators contented themselves by standing on the edge and watching the race down in the basement ng on the edge and watching the race

The negro was as scared as a buck rabbit when the dogs are after him, and with his eyes protruded and his nose dilated he presented a very ridiculous appearance. His fright added to his agility and he kept the officers chasing him at a great rate for quite awhile. quite awhile

Finally they pinned him in a corner and Deputy Marshal A. G. Elder hand-cuffed him and turned him over to the po-Mr. Harris got back everything that had been stolen, including notes to the amount of $300, which the negro had hid in Mr.

Stokes Norman seems to like to work for Colonel Jim Smith in convict stripes and probably he will be sent back to try it strains.

The Demand for Cash

The circular from the Louisville Packing Company insisting that the merchants who owe them for meat must pay them in currency or Louisville exchange, has been received by the wholesale merchants of this city, and is being widely discussed on the streets today. Some of the merchants think that it will go hard with them to have to send the specie away from town instead of New York exchange, but the vast majority of them are satisfied that it will amount to nothing.

Very few of the large packing houses are Very few of the large packing houses are asking for anything save New York exchange, and that is gladly accepted at par. The Armour Packing Company, it is true, in their telegraphic reports demanded that two per cent be added in remitting for meat. This would amount to between $30 and $40 per car, and if all of the packing houses insisted on it, the situation would isisted on it, the situation would houses insisted on it, the situation would indeed be a serious one, but Armour is the only one so far and, of course, his demand will not be granted as any amount of meat can be bought from other packers in Omaha, Kansas City, Chicago, and elsewhere, which do not ask that any discount be made on New York exchange.

The Cause of It. A Constitution representative called on the leading bankers and wholesale mer-chants of Athens today to get their views on the Louisville circular, and to

The general impression seems to be that it is a scheme to control the currency. That Louisville owes New York and can, of course, get no currency from the latter place as all of their checks pass through the New York clearing house, and are cancelled.

The merchants do not believe that the demand for currency will be at all general, and as far as Armour's demand is concerned, they declare it is preposterous, and that they will buy from other packers until Armour comes down. The Normal School.

The work at the Georgia Normal school goes or with unabated interest. Last night the auditorium couldn't hold the immense crowd that came to hear Professor C. M. Strahan's charming lecture on "The Yel-

Stranan's charming lecture on "The Tel-loystone National park."

Besides the lecture which was the chief attraction of the evening the following en-tertaining programme was presented: Instrumental Solo—The Two Larks—Miss

The University Outlook. Chancellor Boggs was seen the other day, and he said that the demand for catalogues of the university of Georgia was more active than it had ever been since his connection with college began.

This indicates that the attendance of the university will be greatly increased this year in spite of the temporary hard times which row assail us.

The farmers appreciate the fact that their harvests this fall will be larger than they have been in many years, and they do not intend that their sons shall be kept away from an education when the are able to give it to them.

The bankers and moneyed men may be panicky, but the farmers are all right, and the chances are that many of their sons will be reaping the advantages of a university education the coming session.

There were 212 men in the university last term, and it is believed that the number will be greatly increased this year. Railroad Schemes.

Major John C. Winder, general manager of the Seaboard Air-Line railroad, is here in his private car. Last night Receiver Nat Harris, Agent

A. C. Knapp, of Macon, and Lawyer Hen-ry J. Bowden, of Baltimore, who represents almost the entire bonded interest of the Macon and Northern railroad, came to Athens and this morning they were all in con-ference in Major Winder's car.

The result of their conference will not be given to the public at present, but it is rumored that a combination between the Georgia Southern and Florida, Macon and Northern and Seaboard Air-Line is being arranged

MUSIC IN JAIL.

How the Prisoners in Morgan County Jali Pass Their Time. Madison, Ga., August 13 .- A reporter of Madison, Ga., August 13.—A reporter of The Constitution was kindly shown through the jail by our accommodating sheriff, H. C. Fears. We found Mr. J. C. Few, Jr., there on guard duty, the full being in such condition that it is necessary to keep it guarded day and night. Mr. W. J. Mooney comes on at night.

There are at present nineteen inmates—fifteen colored and four whites. The following is a list of their names with the crime for which they were arrested, and for which they must stand trial in our September court.

Subtreasuries in the South.

It would be of great benefit in times of prosperity, and provide much-needed relief in times of financial stringency like the present, if subtreasuries could be established throughout the country. One in each state would add largely to the facilities of trade and business, especially during a period of depression such as the country is now passing through. But if one in each state of the south and southwest would too largely increase the number, there can be no reasonable objection to the establishment of a subtreasury at each center of populationone at Richmond, one at Atlanta, one at Nashville or Memphis, one at New Orleans and one at some central point in Texas.

In this, as in other matters affecting the rights and interests of the east, the south has been discriminated against in a manner that can hardly be explained. We do not think our representatives have neglected their duty, and no explanation can be offered except this. that under republican administrations and republican policy the commercial as well as the political interests of this section have been discriminated against

This discrimination can be remedied at this time, and the best evidence that the south is not to be ignored will be the establishment of subtreasuries at points where their operations will tend to facilitate and forward the business and trade interests of this section.

The finances of the government ar now managed altogether on the subtreasury system and it seems unreason able to suppose that the business interests of the south are not to share in the benefits and facilities that are extended to those of the more favored sections. north of the political dead-line.

As Mr. Hemphill suggests, the formal arrangement for establishing subtreasuries in the south should be preceded by sending supplies of available silver to the national banks in the cotton centers, thus establishing temporary subtreas urles to meat the emergency of moving the cotton crop.

There will be no difficulty in moving the cotton crop, perhaps n there was 'n ISM after the Baring fail The banks here and elsewhere have made provision for the emergency but the movement would be greatly fa cilitated all over the south if our banks and business men had the advantage of even a temporary subtreasury where they could secure an adequate supply of currency.

It is to be hoped that Georgia and the south will soon be placed on something like an equality with the east and the north so far as subtreasury facilities are concerned. All they ask for is facilities in proportion to the importance of their trade and business.

The Harrison Policy.

A correspondent-a business manwrites to call our attention to that portion of the president's message which insists that the policy, adopted by a republican administration, of redeeming the silver notes of 1890 in gold, and asks us to comment further on it. He sends us also this passage clipped from the message:

It is however, declared in the act to be "the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio or such ratio as may be provided by law." This declaration so controls the action of the sec-retary of the treasury as to prevent his exercising the discretion nominally vested in him, if by such action the parity between him, if by such action the parity between gold and silver may be disturbed. Manifestly a refusal by the secretary to pay these treasury notes in gold, if demanded, would necessarily result in their discredit and depreciation as obligations payable only in silver, and would destroy the parity between the two metals by establishing a discrimination in favor of gold. Up to the 15th day of July, 1893, these notes had been issued in payment of silver buillion purchases. to the amount of silver bullion purchases to the amount of more than $147,000,000.

It is true that the foregoing gives to Charles Foster's policy the advantage of a distinguished name and the endorsement of an honest man, but it does not add one argument or fact in favor of such a policy. Here is a great government bound by law to keep the two metals at a parity in its currency as money standards. It issues treasury notes against purchases of silver bul-These notes represent silver, but they are redeemable at the discretion of the secretary of the treasury in either gold or silver. The government is enjoined against discriminating against either metal, but here come Tom, Dick and Harry with these treasury notes and demand payment in gold. The secretary at once surrenders his discretion and permits Tom, Dick and Harry to discriminate against silver by ognizing the legality of their demand for gold. In other words the secretary of the treasury exercises no discretion whatever, but feels bound to justify the disation against silver by acceding to the demand of Tom, Dick and Harry for gold redemption of a silver note. Tom, Dick and Harry exercise all the discretion that is exercised, and back it up with a demand that is promptly com-Hed with. Thus a law which it is in ended the secretary of the treasury shall administer, is in reality administered by Tom, Dick and Harry, who demand gold for silver notes and have their demand complied with.

The result is that there is no such hing as parity between the two metals. The silver dollars cease to be money or final payment, but are redeemable in gold, as are all other forms of our currency. The eastern newspapers all say today that silver dollars are kept at par because they are redeemable in gold, but such a statement was never made by an American newspaper until after Charles Foster declared that the silver notes of 1890 would be redeemed in gold on demand.

Here is the whole secret and source of the trouble from which the country is now suffering. Silver is already practically demonetized by the maladministration of the law, and currency is noarded because it is more valuable than all other forms of property. If there were fear of depreciation money would rush back into the channels of trade. prices would rise and we should experience all the results of temporary infla-

We seem willing to stand by while the other nations are parceling out or fighting over the rest of the world, and this sort of thing has one on until we are surrounded on all side by people who are rather foes than friends.

A Friend in Need.

The much abused silver dollar is on best friend when we are in need. In The New York World's want col umns, the other day, the following ad vertisement was very conspicuous:

WANTED-SILVER DOLLARS-We desir to purchase at a premium of 3.4 per cent, or $7.50 per $1,000 or more, in return for our certified checks, payable through the clearing house. Zimmerman & Forshay, bankers, Wall street.

When Wall street brokers offer premium of $7.50 per thousand for sil ver dollars, the fact speaks for itself. Dollars that command such a premi um in our greatest money center are honest enough and sound enough for the country at large. A Remarkable Book.

Thoughtful readers in Europe are dis cussing Dr. Max Nordaeu's new book 'Degeneracy," and they find very little comfort in it.

This strange and fascinating book argues that art, literature, morals and taste in Europe show that the civilized and educated races are tottering. It takes our nervous disorders and the statistics of insanity and crime, and quotes the peculiar tricks of language in the popular writers of the day to prove the theory of degeneracy. The doctor claims that men and women are handicapped by heredity-by the irritating food and drink and stimulants of their ancestors, and that the people of the present day have something in their blood that forces them to overstimulate themselves. They cannot under existing conditions have sound minds and bodies, and their pessimism and morbid literary and artistic taste makes it plain that they are rapidly deteriorating.

Such a book is a bitter, but perhaps wholesome tonic. The author exag gerates the ewils of the situation, but he tells some important truths. If he had said that civilized man is advancing in certain directions and going backward in others he would have been more than

On the Old Plantation.

While it is true that the most success ful men in cities and towns came from the country, it is also true that ninety nine out of a hundred who leave the rural districts to seek their fortunes in the city make a serious mistake.

The drudgery of farm work drives many young men to the city. The chances are that they will find all work hard and unpleasant everywhere. They will enjoy more freedom and independ ence in the country, and it is in their power to make life on the plantation just as sweet and bright as it is elsewhere.

The farmer must educate his children. and see that his house is supplied with books, newspapers and music. Cultured and congenias nei chbors will form close friendships, and their united action will bring good roads and many of the conveniences of town life. Free rural mail delivery must come before long, and it will bring the farms into closer relations with the towns. Sooner or later there will be telephone stations in every small country community, and it is more than likely that the electric railway system will be extended until every locality will enjoy satisfactory transportation facilities.

Of course young men will always drift from the country to the town, but they should know where they are going, and they should know that there are good positions waiting for them which their capacity will enable them to fill. An in discriminate rush of inexperienced youngsters to the big cities simply to try their luck is a very unwise movement. We need a large number of brainy, educated young men who are willing to do their level best on our plantations and farms. Their chances there will be far better than in our great business centers Their work will be no harder, and they will get more out of life. A Matter of Justice.

In the sketch of Mr. J. R. Holliday, printed in yesterday morning's paper, the headlines would lead one to infer that he was entirely in charge of The Constitution's eastern advertising department. As a matter of fact, he shares that position with Mr. C. C. Nichols, who does most of the soliciting. Mr. Nichols knows personally almost every large advertiser in the country, and is exceedingly popular with the fraternity.

How Church Bells Saved Atlanta From The New York Times. "I remember," said an old soldier last Sunday morning, "when church-going bells much more distant than those saved the city of Atlanta. It is a story I never saw in print.

"In early August, 1864, General Sherman "In early August, 1884, General Sherman had closed in on Atlanta. The Eleventh In diana battery had placed in position, with our assistance, four sixty-four-pound rifle guns to shell the city with heavy artillery, under the command of General John M. Brannan. Our regiment, the Second Massachusetti had had Sunday morning inspection and pa-rade, after which the men of the regiment went to the hill back of the camp to see the effect of the fire on the city lying below us and two and a half miles away.

"We could see the charches of Atlanta, from the spines of several of which were floating rebel flags. The batteries were in position, the guns were shotted, the fuses were in and an officer stepped up to pull the lanyard to fire the first shot. As he lifted his hand the sound of a church bell ringing the people to worship fell on his ear.

"For a moment there was silence. The officers looked from one to the other, and the shot was not fired that day. The Sunday church-going bell was too much for the Twentieth corps of Sherman's army. But on Monday the city got it."

Forty Dollars Saved the Bank.

Old-timers tell the story how T. J. Kelley, a contractor of this city and now manager of the horse market in Grand avenue, be tween Fifth street and Missouri avenue, by a very clever ruse, stopped a run on a bank and prevented its going to the wall way back in 1871. A Sweet Voice.

From The Baltimore Sun. William Archer, the well-known London William Archer, the well-known London critic, is quoted as paying the following gushing tribute to Ada Rehan's voice: "Ib has something of the mellowness of a fresh, ripe peach with the bloom upon it, while in prolonged monologue it suggests the flow of those 'lucent syrups, tinct with cannaof those 'lucent syrups, tinct with cana-mon,' whereof the poet sang who had of all men the most delicate perception of things of pure beauty. It seems to me that there is something characterisation. something characteristically Irish in Miss Rehan's voice. Its range is very great; but Rehan's voice. Its range is very great; our in no key is it more irresistible than in that of insinuating cajolery." A ripe, peachy voice, with a bloom upon it, is a new figure of speech, and somewhat difficult to grant Probably Mr. Archer meant a peach-anhoney voice, which is even pleasanter and more seductive than the "lucent syrupatinct with cinnamon." of which his poet, with an eve for beauty sang. The voice of with an eye for beauty sang. The vo with an eye for beauty sang. The voice of peach and honey is low and gurgling, but eminently soothing to the feelings and inspiring to the intellect. After listening to its "prolonged monologue," there lives no man with soul so dead who would not jois with Mr. Archer in inditing a poem to the voice of the peach. Only, in this country, if one listens too long to the Gulcet tones of peach and honey, the bloom is apt to be transferred from the peach to the nose of the peach who has been contured by its peach and honey, the bloom is apt to transferred from the peach to the nose the person who has been captured by "insinuating cajolery."

A Grinning Farce. From The Buffalo Courier.

What a grinning farce it is in this period of financial uncertainty and distress for the American people to be soberly called upon to make up a purse of several thousand dollars for the relief of a broken Spanish duke for whose entertainment thousands upon thousands of dollars have been spent. The men who would seriously call for subscriptions for such a ridiculous purpose ought to be examined by some expert in brain diseases.

INFLUX FROM BRUNSWICK.

More Than a Thousand Left There Saturday Night-Still They Come from Pensacola-All Are Welcome. On account of the quarantine flags that se waving in many of the southern cities it has become nesessary for travelers to go armed with certificates in order to pass their ports and the Atlanta board of health has taken steps to furnish these certificates on short notice to those who may desire Dr. John P. Kennedy, of 63 1-2 White hall street, has been made secretary of the board with full power to issue these certificates and will be glad to give them out as fast as they are called for without charge.

Notice has been given to the public of this action of the board and everybody going out of Atlanta on the trains should take the precaution to call and get one of these certificates to preclude the possibility of being held up in doubt at any of the quarantined places.

No charge will be made for the issuing of the certificates and they will be a great help to those who may be traveling southward, where nearly all of the towns have raised the quarantine flag against the yel-low fever.

certificates state that the bearer is out of Atlanta and that he has in no way been subjected to the dread disease. The mere statement that the traveler is ont of Atlanta, of course, carries with it the idea that he can safely be allowed to pass under the quarantine restrictions and go about his business, for Atlanta is not and cannot well be an afflicted city in such times as these.

Everything Is Active Here.

Atlanta is getting ready with a vim to receive the refugees from the infested regions along the coast.

Sanitary Inspector Veal has fitted up house far out to the southwest suburbs of the city, has had it nicely whitewashed and furnished for the first case of yellow fewer that may be brought here and will have every preparation for the complete isolation of such cases, should there be any. It is not thought that there will even be single case to handle, but it is Atlanta's way to be ready for the emergency whatever that emergency may be.

heard there was a case of yellow fever brought to Atlanta?" asked a Constitution reporter of Inspector Veal last night. "I would send the ambulance, which we have already fitted up and have the case removed at once to the house out on the suburbs, which I have put in order for the yellow fever patients. I would then turn the matter over to the attention of the city board of health and rest satisfied city board of health and rest satisfied that every attention, medical and otherwise, that could be given would be given the case. The house for such cases has been whitewashed and put in good order for isolating the disease should it be brought to Atlanta and with the careful attention of the men who go to make up the city board of health it is easy to see how we could samp out the scourge before it got a clenching grip on any section of the city."

"How far is the temporary hospital away from the city?"

"Oh, several miles. It is full distance to get the people of Atlanta out of danger. No communication would be allowed, of course, and the cases that would be sent there would be in no way liable to spread in the city. It would be hard to spread the disease here anyhow, as past experience shows. Atlanta is so high and the dimate so antagonistic to yellow fever that there can be but little fear of the dis ease, even should it get out here among the refugees."

Three Hundred Soldiers Arrive. The Atlanta board of health was potified yesterday of the coming of a special loaded with soldiers from Pensacola and Dr. Kennedy, secretary, and Captain Yeal, chief inspector, were sent out to meet the train and go through it. They boarded the train at East Point and went through it from locomotive to the last red flag at the rear and found no cases There were several cars to the train and about three hundred soldiers from the Pensacola post were on board. They came to Atlanta by the order of the government on short notice, fleeing the disease in Pensacola as soon as it broke out

The train came by way of the Atlanta and West Point road and stopped at the barracks out at Fort McPherson. There the soldiers were marched into the grounds of the fort and were taken in town by the quartermaster of the post.

They reported having a hard time of it coming up from the infested city in many of the towns that have quarantined, shotsetting out of the train. They had to keep the windows down at many of the keep the windows down at many of the places and it was a steamed and tired crowd of soldiers that tramped out and formed a line on the clover blossoms that carpet the lawns of the fort. They will be taken care of at Fort McPherson by the Third artillers used lery until cold weather, when they will be sent back to the Florida city after the scare

A Carload of Indians.

A Carload of Indians.

Along with the soldiers from Florida time a carload of Indian soldiers. They were taken care of at the fort just as the others of the regiment.

It was a queer sight to see real live Indians marching into the grounds of Fort McPherson and, particularly, to see them as refugees. The theory has been advanced by some that Indians never die natural deaths and never grow old and to see them skipping out from yellow fever made the story interesting.

The chief inspector and the secretary of the board of health went among the Indians and inspected their condition closely. No vestige of fever was to be found among the soldiers and they had easy access to the grounds of Fort McPherson.

A City of Refuge.

A City of Refuge.

Atlanta is a city of refuge to the inhabitants of plague-stricken communities.

Last week a train load of fugitives from Pensacola reached here and they kept coming by every train thereafter.

erday morning the East Tennessee train from Brunswick brought up a large number of people, who were hurrying to a safe place.

Some registered at the Aragon, others at the Kimball and the Markham and other the Kimball and the private boarding houses. Several went to private boarding houses and many went on farther. Two young gentlemen, who went to the Aragon, did not register the name of the port with that flourish and boldness with which its name is usually written by those who hail from there. But it was all right. All the hotel proprietors say that refugees need have no fear that accommodations will be refused them. They are welcome so long as the rooms hold out.

"I suppose there were a thousand people leaving Brunswick last night," said one of the refugees. "There was only one case, that of the doctor who was sent to our quarantine station by the marine hospital department. He caught the fever going through the bunks and clothing of the crew of a versel from Havana, which was lying at the quarantine station. He got all the clothes of the sailors out to fumigate them and he was making a scientific search for germs. He found some, too, or they found him. Saturday morning the doctor was brought over from the quarantine station to the city and was isolated. I and my friend were on the boat when he was brought aboard. Dr. Dunwoody attended him. During the day the case was anhim. During the day the case was an-nounced to be yellow fever. That naturally caused a stampede. I do not think there will be another case. Brunswick is in good sanitary condition. This case is isolated, and everything will be done to keep it from spreading, and by taking it in time this can be done. There was nothing to keep us there and we left. We will return keep us there and we left. We will return in a day or two unless there should be other cases, which we do not look for. I know some gentlemen who came up with their families or children and who will return today. The doctors say that there is scarcely any danger of the fever spreading."

One business man, who came up Saturday night, says that in the afternoon when he concluded to take his vacation, he saw that it would not be worth while to go around and try to get any money. He had a good deposit in one of the banks so he made out a handful of small checks and took them to the bank and had them certified.

"The amounts are small," he said, "and no one can feel that he is taking a risk in cashing them. They are all certified. This was the best plan that occurred to me, and I rather congratulated provided in the congratulated of the congratulat This was the best plan that occurred to me, and I rather congratulated myself on adopting it. I shall stay right here in Atlanta for a few days. All along the line coming up refugees got off to stay with relatives or friends. If there should be more fever there Atlanta will get a considerable increase in population. The best thing for a city stricken by the fever is all who can, to leave. That gives the disease less to feed upon."

West Point, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—Miss Anita Lee Brunson's elocution class presented "The Crowning of the Rose" at the opera house Thursday night. The play is one of Miss Brunson's compositions, and in its rendition several charming tableaux are given. The costumes of the young ladies who participated were exquisite and harmonized beautifully with the characteristics of the flowers represented. The play consists of two acts with three scenes each. The woodland scenery is throughout allve with flowers and fairies, while little Capid is conspicuously active. Prominent among the characters were Mr. George Harris, king of the fairles; Miss Leila Freeman, queen of the fairles; Fortune Lanier, Narcissus; Miss Edna Shealey, echo; Miss Mabel Horsley, goddess of night: Muss Mattle Horsley, dahlia; Miss Exa Wiley, chrysanthenum; Miss Emma Adams, snowdrop; Miss Minnie Longsilofe, Rose the queen of flowers, and Master Hilliard Crawford, Cupid. In the conclusion the fairles plight the rose a symbol of joy and love. Vocal solos were rendired by Misses Sara Little and Ida Jackson. The andlence enjoyed the evening to the fullest extent. Miss Brunson's class numbers forty pupils, all of whom manifest much interest in the study of elocution.

The Meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Today at 12.

VERY IMPORTANT BUSINESS TO ARISE

The Question of Handling the Cotton Crop to Be Discussed-Every Citizen Should Attend the Meeting.

Don't forget the meeting at the Chamber of Commerce building today at 12 o'clock.
It is a meeting that not a single business man of Atlanta should miss. It is a meeting for the purpose of discussing the ques-tion of how to raise sufficient money in this city to handle the cotton crop, or rather to investigate the reports that have recently been circulated in some of the trade papers that there would be a crisis in the south when it came to handling the cotton crop this year owing to the hard times.

The report has gone forth that the bankers of the south would not be willing if able to lend money to the cotton buyers and that the crop would have to wait for the times to grow better for the marketing of the fleecy staple. The interviews printed in The Constitution on this line showed that the clearing house people of this city are more than willing to meet the demands that will be made on them for the manipulation of the cotton crop of this part of the south. Captain Robert Lowry, of the clearing ouse, was quoted as saying that there would not be the faintest doubt about the banks being able to handle the local cotton trade this year just as they have handled it every year.

But, the meeting today is to ascertain just what arrangements can be made along this line for the cotton growers and the cotton buyers of this section of the state-It will be an important meeting and one that every loyal citizen of Atlanta should attend. The eeting has been called by President Stewart Woodson, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and all the business men of the city not mem-bers of the Chamber of Commerce are also expected to be in attendance.

Police a Long Chase.

Two negroes broke into W. H. Terrell's house at 256 Haynes street early yesterday morning and stole his clothing from the room in which he and his wife were asieep.

They got several dollars in cash. Mr. Terrell discovered the burglary soon after it had been committed and walked in haif a mile and reported it to Policeman Mahaffey. The officer went out to the neighborhood and soon got on the track of the negroes. He followed them a long distance and finally came up on two men who were acting suspiciously. They started to run and he had a long chase after one. The one on whose track he stuck he captured under the Magnolia street bridge. The other man was seen running through West Fand and looking back over his shoulder. He had one shoe off and was evidently getting away from something. He was overhauled by an officer out there. Both men were taken to the station house. All the stolen articles and the money were recovered. The negroes gave their names as Perry Jones and Mose Hughley. The arresting officers were Mahaffey and Cason.

THE SERMON AT THE FIRST CHRISTIAN.

Large Congregations Greet the Various Clergymen-The Subjects Upon Which They Dwelt.

An immense andience was what Dr. W. A An immense audience was what Dr. W. A. Candler saw when he walked into the pulpit of Trinity yesterday morning.

The Constitution published that Dr. Candler would preach at Trinity at 11 o'clock and that there would he no services at night. and that there would be no services at night.
When Dr. Candler got up before his congregation he called attention to the publication and said he loved to preach too well to have and said he loved to preach too well to have the church closed and would preach again at night and he did to a fine audience, who went to church through the rain to hear him.

Dr. Candler is a great favorite as a pulpit orator, and his sermon in the morning was one of the broadest and deepest ever heard in Atlanta. His morning discourse was on "Faith." He read for his text three parts of scripture embracing the faith of the centurion, the faith of Mary and the faith of the Phenician woman whose daughter had been sick twelve years—an imperfect synopsis is all that can be given of this magnificent sermon.

Dr. Candler said that many think that God

Dr. Candler said that many think that God can do all things, but God can't define faith. God can't make us think as he thinks. There is no virtue in having faith in faith—we must have faith in God. God told Moses to erect a brazon serpent and all who were bitten by the deadty serpents in the wilderness to look and live. Some had to be carried to the doors of their tents and as they gazed the wound would beal, but when they stopped to examme the wound the healing process stopped. Implicit faith in God is essential in a Christian life.

the wound the healing process stopped. Implicit faith in God is essential in a Christian life.

There are many kinds of faith, as is illustrated in two good meas words as they meet. One says: "Oh, brother, are you not giad that the day is about over, and we have one day less to live before we go to our blessed home in eternity?" The other replies: "No; I am not; I rather like to live down here." Both wree good men; their faith was of a different kind. Faith must be original. I do not want to be understood here that originality means crankiness. I have no respect for a crank. I mean that each man has his own peculiar and individual faith. There is an individuality about every man's faith.

The centurion came and met Jesus and said: "My servant is very sick and I know you can cure him." The Master told the centurion that he would go and see the servant, but the centurior explained, saying: "I am a man of authority; I say come and they come, and I command go and they go, and you can say my servant is healed and he will be healed." Christ said: "I have not found such faith; no, not in all israel. Now, this is what I would call a soldier's faith. "Command and my servant will live," said this solder. Another kind of faith—"Master, have mercy on me." said the poor woman whose daughter was sick and had been for twelve years. She had heard of Christ, and had left the house and traveled many miles to see Christ, and when she saw him she said: "Master, have man traveled many miles to see Christ, and when she saw him she said: "Master, have mercy on me." Sid the poor twelve years. She had heard of Christ, and had left the house and traveled many miles to see Christ, and when she saw him she said: "Master, have man traveled many miles to see Christ, and when she saw him she said: "Master, have mercy on me." The disciples objected on account of her nationality, and Christ called her attention to the fact. She did not care for the meat, but wanted the crumbs.

Give a poor dog the crumbs from the master's table! This desperate when Christ asked who touched and eciples were astonished and called his attention to the fact that Mary had touched him as the crowd thronged and pressed on every side, but the Master said some one had touched him; that He had felt the virtue go out of Him, when poor Mary turned her eyes and acknowledged that she had just touched the hem of His garment.

You might call this supersition. Let it be superstition, but it's grand faith in God. She said. "Master, I meant no harm; I have been sick a long time and I just touched the hem of your robe." Oh, what faith! God sympathized with the harlots, and when He went to dinner at the Pharesee's house Mary got her box of alabaster and broke it and anointed His head and wiped His feet with the harl of her head.

Faith is full of originality. The wise men came from the east to see the son of the God of Bethlehem.

The shepherds heard the song of the angelic host, and left their flocks and went to see the newborn habe.

The old Scotch blacksmith, when he was asked why he worked in his old age, as it was not necessary, replied that. I am preaching to the Mife beyond—faith. Oh, what faith a child has in its loving mother. My little five-year-old babe wakes in the darkness of the night; a mother's voice quiets it. The child can't talk, but can understand. Can't we have simple faith? Let the Lord's children lean on God. Each of our faith is peculiar to ourselves.

When Martin Luther preacher Christ as the son of God. it was all right; no one objected; but when he commenced to preach the witness of the spirit the people objected, and did not understand. Faith is an old Roman knight, bleeding, but never leaving his post or laying down his harp. Faith makes true bravery. Daniel in the lion's den and the three Hebrew children in the fiery furnace, give examples of true faith in God, and the poor widow who put her last mite in the collection box shows how God looks at us in our gying alms. Oh, that we had faith to lean on God; not faith in faith, but faith in God.

followed them a long distance and finally came up on two men who were acting suspiciously. They started to run and he had a long chase after one. The one on whose track he stuck he captured under the Mingnolia street bridge. The other man was seen running through West End and looking back over his shoulder. He had one shoe off and was evidently getting away from something. He was overhauled by an officer out there. Both men were taken to the station house. All the stolen articles and the money were recovered. The negroes gave their names as Perry Jones and Mose Hughley. The arresting officers were Mahaffey and Cason.

A FULL DAYS WORK.

The Police Were on the Move and Booked Thirty-Nine Cases.

The police had a busy Sunday. One week before there was not an arrest. From Saturday midnight to 12 o'clock last night thirty-Ine arrests were made and at today's court Judge Calhoun will have upwards of a hundred cases to hear.

Not a blind tiger was captured yesterday, and it was timely. His topic was the lack of faith men have in each other just now. Crops are abundant, there is no famine and no unusual visitation, but in the midst of plenty there is distress widecast and men a grand country, he said, with magnificent point that the speaker made was that there can be no prosperity where there is no faith. Doing our duty to God. Lack of faith does not effect the truth. Truth remains unchanged, but individuals and communities suffer by loss of confidence God gives tests of man's faith and this may be one. And more, the present unhappy times will prove in the midst of the country.

At the Catholic Church.

At the Catholic Church.

The attendance at the Catholic church was unusually large.
Father Kelley conducted the mass and preached a short sermon.

"There was never a more momertous question," said he in the course of his talk, "than that asked of our Lord, 'Master, what shall I do to gain life eternal and everiasting happiness? The subject of all our searches and labors in this life, and all we have in view is happiness; no one ever seeks for misery and unhappiness, knowing it. Nothing is so uncertain as life, nothing so certain as death; and we know that the world is full of trouble and misery. We recognize that salvation is paramount to all else-at least we recognize it in theory—and in practice we seem to care but very little about it. If we look around us we can see a vast majority who care nothing for the salvation of their souls, at any event that is the appearance. If we were to examine our own minds, souls and consciences we would find that we are just like them.

"We fly from and abbor pain, yet in our failure to obtain everlasting life we enter into an unending term of everlasting misery and unhappiness. Men are kept from crime, not on account of the punishment that will follow by a separation from all that is good and holy in after life, but they fear publicity and their amenity to the law."

and holy in after life, but they fear publicity and their amenity to the law."

A large crowd, which taxed the capacity of the building, greeted Mr. Williamson yesterday morning. The subject of his sermon was the Psalmist's words? "I shall be satisfied with thy likeness when I awake." Said the preacher:

"Religion is endogenous, it is an inside grower and is not essentially dependent upon outward circlimistiaces. It is estentially spiritual and a matter of the mind and heart. Contentment is a necessary element of happiness. This quality is rare and is capable of cultivation. The freat apostle, whose splendid influence is widening and deepening with the gliding centuries, declared: 'I have learned in whatsoever state I am therewith to be content.'

"My text, however, does not speak of contentment but satisfaction, which is a stronger, fuller term. Men may be content without being satisfied. Satisfaction is essential to perfect happiness, but is no evidence necessarily that you are doing right. Satisfaction is conformity to one's ideal; if that ideal be high so will the life be. It is essential to the highest and noblest living that we shall have the highest and noblest living that we shall have the highest and noblest living that the skies.' There are three classes of 'satisfied people,' of whom I wish to speak briefly. "There are people satisfied with their religious doctrines not because they have investigated them. They believe as their fathers did and do not care to investigate for themselves. They do not care to be disturbed. They are satisfied. No man ought to be satisfied because of perfect agreement. The scripture light ought to be turned on all doctrines. They ought to stand or fail by the word of God and by it alone.

"There are people living a very low spirttnai life and yet when approached they express themselves as being satisfied. These people do not want to give up the word. They do not long for great spiritual growth and power. They love the word and its follies and sins of the kingdom of God. They have a low fever and are barely living when they should be full of vitality, anxions and eager to do for Christ and the world.

"There are still others who have never professed faith in Christ, and yet they claim to be well satisfied. Their wills are yet unsubdued, their hearts still hard, their sould unsaved and yet satisfied? They are paralyzed and because they feel no prickings of conscience they take their numbness for safety and satisfaction. Oh, heart-hardened sinner, awake to your lost condition and come to Christ before it is too late.

"The true satisfaction is expressed in my text. It is the satisfaction of the soul in its loftiest aspirations after its most perfect ideal, it is the perfection, in the soul, of the divine likeness. In this life, dear hearet, we are given time, talent and opportunity for the perfecting of this image. How discouraged we sometimes become! How imperfect indeed our work! Let us struggle on day by day, little by little, and though we may never be satisfied here with our work, when we are done and our eyes have been touched into sleep and kissed by the Master into eternal wakefulness, then 'gith the divine image upon us made by the ten thous sand tender touches of His fashioning chisel, we shall be satisfied with the likeness."

sand tender touches of His fashioning chisel, we shall be satisfied with the likeness."

As Dr. Strickler is absent on his summer vacation, the pulpit of the Central Presbyterian church was filided yesterday by Rev. Samuel Young, D. D., the president of the Fidelity Banking and Trust Company. His text was John, vil. 17. "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine whether it be of God or whether I speak of myself."

It was an able sermon, and was listened to with close attention. Following is brief synopsis:

Axiomatic truth is needed as a beginning in all sciences, and in pone more than in the science of religion. Until the first principles are settled, nothing can be learned. Though needed in religion, it is hard to be acquired, because the natural mind does not accept religions truth. But the text gives us an axiomatic truth, which any one may test, and one from which all others may be proved. It teaches that if we do the will of God we shall know of the teaching of Christ that it is from God.

The chief thing required by the will of God is belief in Christ and his mission. It also requires that in Him we should keep all the requirements of the law, to do justice, to love mercy, to preserve ourselves from sin, and love and help our fellow men. To do this, faith is required. We cannot comprehend religious truth as we do other truth, because our spiritual faculties are blighted. It is not enough that we merely know them. A blind man may get some idea of the beauties of the rainbow from an intelligent description, but he can never realize them as one who sees. Such is the mere knowledge of divine truth compared with the comprehension of it through faith. The text does not promise that we will understand all the truth—only that we will know it is from God. I suppose that even after the redeemed soul has spent ages of eternity in heaven it will yet not understand the wonderful doctrine of the trinity in unity.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

Apportionment of the Offices Among the Democratic Senators.

THE PATRONAGE EACH SENATOR HAS.

The Return of "Dirty Joe Cannon" to the and Other Matters.

Washington, August 13.-(Special.)-The senate omces have been apportioned out among the democratic senators. Each senator is to have patronage to the amount of $3,000. Of course all the old democratic employes will be held over and twenty or thirty of the old republicans will be continued in the offices which they have held

Among the latter is Colonel Bassett, the veteran assistant sergeant-at-arms who has been an employe of the senate for anore than sixty years. In appearance he is very much like ex-Senator Brown, of Georgia. He was chief of the pages of ane senate when Senator Gorman was a page. He is always the master of cereon great occasions in the senate It is he who sets the hands of the great clock back every 4th of March and it is he who is keeper of the senatorial snuff box. It may seem strange in this day but it is a tact that there are not less than a half dozen of the older senators who yet snut snutf regularly from the silver box of the venerable Captain Bassett.

Mr. Joseph Cannon, of Illinois, he who was once known as "Dirty Mouth Joe," is again in the house. It will be remembered that after a service of sixteen years he was defeated two years ago because of a sup of the tongue in a heated political debate. The New York Sun in its charac geristic style took ism up and practically drove him out of congress. A democrat had his seat in the last nouse, but he turns up again this time, and yesterday attemptto resume his old place as leader of the republican side second only to Reed. He attempted to lead a filibuster against the adoption of the democratic agreement as to the fight on silver. But the republicans refused to follow him and it is not probable that he will prove more successful in future. The republican side has learned to follow Tom Reed like sheep and they will follow no one else.

They are, perhaps, wise in that. Tom Reed is undoubtedly the brainiest republican in America.

Speaking of Reed, he is one of those men who is always ready to give his political opponents the credit they are entitled to. He says the agreement they carried through in the house Yesterday for the settlement of the silver fight is the most masterful stroke of diplomacy he has known the party to adopt since he has been in the house; and he acknowledges that by it the republicans lost a splendid opportunity for political capital. Had the opening of the fight been delayed until the appointment of the committees and the adoption of rules there would certainly have been a long and bitter contest, filibustering would have resulted and Speaker Crisp would have been forced to adopt his rules or else the fight would have last ed all the session and the country would have overthrown the party which failed to act. Either way it would have been meat for the republicans. But the settle ment relieves the party and the speaker

It seems that there has been a mistake about Bourke Cockran having been selected as the leader of the administration forces on the floor of the house. There were several aspirants for this position; notably Mr. Cockran, Mr. Tracy, of New York, and Mr. Raynor, of Maryland. All of these men called upon Mr. Cleveland while he was in Washington, but he made no request of any one of them. Indeed he told them plainly that personally he would not interfere in the contest, but that Mr. Carlisle would have entire charge of the interests of the administration.

Mr. Carlisle surprised these three states men by selecting Mr. William L. Wilson, of West Virginia, to manage the contest in the house as the representative of the administration. Mr. Wilson, therefore, introduced the bill for the repeal of the Sherman law, to which Mr. Bland offered free coinage substitute yesterday.

Mr. Wilson and Mr. Carlisle served in the house together. It was Mr. Carlisle, when speaker, who first appointed Mr. Wilson on the ways and means committee. He believed the West Virginian to be a strong man and assigned him to the committee purely upon merit. This time Mr. Carlisle selected him to lead the fight for the administration because he believed Mr. Wilson would do it well, and, likewise, to relieve himself from the embarrassment necessary to a selection of one of the three men who aspired to leadership.

It is not probable that a postmaster will be appointed at Atlanta until some financial legislation is adopted.

You know the senators are endorsing different candidates. Then you know the administration needs every vote it can muster in the senate for the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law.

But both senators are against unconditional repeal. It may be that the candidate of neither senator will get it. There are outside influences pulling for a third candidate.

There has been some unfavorable com ent upon the president for going away right at this time. The impression here seems to be that he has gone fishing again. But that is not the case. He is performing a more sacred duty than that of state. Mrs. Cleveland's health is not good just now and he goes to be at her side.

Apropos of his visit Mr. Cleveland does ve in a sou bearing the baptismal name of his father, and, in consequence, there will never be another Grover Cleve

Big, burly Tom Reed is never late in adopting new styles in dress. During the fifty-first congress, when he was speaker, surprised every one by appearing at the capitol one morning in a negligee shirt and a large dark red sash. This summer he has discarded the sash for the later style, and now he appears daily in a brindle-colored suit of Kentucky tow with his pantaloons turned up at the bottom in true

The one-minute prayer platform upon which one candidate for chaplain of the house of representatives endeavored to be house of representatives endeavored to be elected has caused much adverse criticism among ministers. They hold that such incidents bring religion into disrepute. Of course that candidate was defeated.

The house always endeavors to secure the services of the most powerful and profound preacher, but none of them ever offered up a more beautiful prayer than that delivered at the opening of the first session of the first congress. It was delivered more than 100 years ago, by Rev. Jacob Duche. Here it is:

O, Lord, our Heavenly Father, high and mighty King of kings and Lord of lords, who dost from Thy throne behold all the dwellers on earth and reignest with power supreme and uncontrolled over all kingdoms, empires and governments, look down in mercy, we beseech Thee, on these American states, who have fled to Thee from the rod of the oppressor and thrown themselves on Thy gracious protection, desiring to be henceforth dependent only on Thee. To Thee they have appealed for the righteousness of their cause; to Thee do they now look up for that countenance and support which Thou alone caust give: take them; therefore, Henvenly Father, under Thy nurturing care; give them wisdom in council and valor in field; defeat the malicious designs of our cruel adversaries; convince them of the unrighteousness of their cause, and if they still persist in their sangulnary purposes, 0! let the voice of Thine own unerring justice, sounding in their hearts, constrain them to drop the weapons of war from their unnerved hands in the day //f battle. Be Ton present, 0, God of Wisdom, and direct the councils of this honorable assembly; enable them to settle things on the best and surrest foundation; that the scene of blood may be speedlly closed; that order, Mrmony and peace may be effectually restored, and truth and justice, religion and plety, prevail and flourish amongst Thy people. Preserve the health of their bodies and the vigor of their minds; shower down on them and the millions they here represent such temperal blessings as Thou seest expedient for them in this world, and crown them with everlasting glory in the world to come. All this we ask in the name and through the merits of Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Savior. Amen!

Witness—I don't know.
Counsel—What! you don't know whether his face was turned to you or the wall?

Witness—No.
Counsel—My lord and gentlemen of the jury, you hear what this witness says. She has declared the prisoners to be the burglars who were in the room, and yet she is unable to state in what position her husband was lying in bed. Well (to the witness), how is it you don't know?
Witness—I could not see.
Counsel—Ha! ha! Just what I thought, you could not see. You were so positive in your recognition of the accused, and yet could not see which way your husband's face was turned. Explain that if you can.

SOME DEEDS OF HEROIC CHRISTIANS.

"It is Christ That Died"—The Strong Argument in the Hands of Every Christian Man.

Brooklyn, N. Y., August 13.—(Special.)—
Rev. Dr. Talmage today chose for his subject: "A Bold Challenge," the text being Romans viii, 34: "Who is he that condemneth? Is it Christ that died, yea; rather that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh inter-

"This is the last sermon I shall ever preach," said Christmas Evans, on the 13th of June, 1838. Three days afterward he expired. I do not know what his text was, but I do know that no man could choose a better theme—though he knew it was the last time he should ever preach than the subject found in this text.

Paul flung this challenge of the text to the feet of all ecclesiastical and civil authority. He feared neither swords nor lions, earth nor hell. Diocletian slew un nons, earth nor hen. Diocietian siew un-counted thousands under his administra-tion, and the world has been full of perse-cution; but all the persecutors of the world could not affright Paul. Was it because he was physically strong? Oh, no, I suppose he was very much weakened by exposure and maltreatment. Was it because he was lacking in sensitiveness? No; you find the most delicate shades of feeling playing in and his letters and sermons. Some of his communications burst into tears. What was it that lifted Paul into this triumphant mood? The thought of a Savior dead, a Savior risen, a Savior exalted, a Savior was it that lifted Paul into this triumphant mood? The thought of a Savior dead, a Savior risen, a Savior exalted, a Savior interceding.

All the world has sung the praise of Princess Alice. One child having died of a contagious disease—she was in the room where another was dying, and the court physician said to her: "You must not breathe the breath of this child, or you yourself will die." But seeing the child mourning because of the death of her brother, the mother stooped down, and in sympathy kissed the little one, caught the disease and perished. All the world sang the heroism and the self-sacrifice of Princess Alice but I have to tell you that when our race was dying the Lord Jesus stooped down and gave us the kiss of his everlasting love, and perished that we might live. "It is Christ that died."

Can you tell me how tender-hearted Paul could find anything to rejoice at in the horrible death scene of Calvary? We weep at funerals; we are sympathetic when we see a stranger die; when a murderer steps upon the scaffold we pray for his departing spirit, and how could Paul—the great-hearted Paul—find anything to be pleased with at the funeral of a God? Beside that, Christ had only recently died and the sorrow was fresh in the memory of the world, and how in the fresh memory of a savior's death could Paul be exultant?

It was because Paul saw in that death his own deliverance and the deliverance of a race from still worse disaster. He saw the gap into which the race must plunge and he saw the bleeding hands of Christ close it. The glittering steel on the top of the executioner's spear in his sight kindled into a torch to light men heavenward. The persecutors saw over the cross five words written in Hebrew, Greek and Latin, but Paul saw over the cross of Christ only one word—"expiation!" He heard in the dying groan of Christ his own groan of eternal torture taken by another. Paul said to himself: "Had it not been that Christ volunteered in my behalf those would have been my mauled hands and feet, my gashed side, burdens; roll on me the sins of this entire nation and after that roll on me the sins of the inhabited earth and then roll on me the sins of the inhabited earth and then roll on me the sins of the four thousand years past, so far as those sins have been forgiven." And the angels of God, seeing the awful pressure cry, "Stop! He can bear no more." And the blood rushing to the nostril and lip seems to cry out, "Enough! He can endure no more." But Christ says, "Roll on a greater burden—roll on the sins of the next nineteen hundred years, roll on me the sins of all the succeeding ages, roll on me the agonies of hell, ages on ages, the furnace and the prison houses and the tortures." That is what the Bible means when it says, "He bore our sins and carried our sorrows."

"Now," says Paul, "I am free; that suffering purchased by deliverance; God never collects a debt triver."

when it says, "He bore our sins and carried our sorrows."

"Now," says Paul, "I am free; that suffering purchased by deliverance; God never collects a debt twice; I have a receipt in full; if God is satisfied with me then what do all the threats of earth and hell amount to? Bring on all your witnesses," says Paul; "show all your force; do your worst Against my soul; I defy you; I dare you; I challenge you. Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died." Oh, what a strong argument that puts in the hands of every Christian man! Some day all the past sins of his life come down on him in a fiery troop and they pound away at the gate of his soul and they say, "We have come for your arrest. Any one of us could overcome you; we are ten thousand strong; surrender!" And you open the door and single-handed and alone you contend against that troop; you fling this divine weapon into their midst; you scatter those sins as quick as you can think it. "It is Christ that died." Why then bring up to us the sins of our past life? What have we to do with those obsolete things? You know how hard it is for a wrecker bring up anything that is lost near the shore of the sea; but suppose something be lost half way between Liverpool and New York; it can't be found, it cannot be fetched up. "Now," says God, "your sins I have cast into the depths of the sea." Mid-Atlantic! All the machinery ever fashioned in foundries of darkness, and launched from the doors of eternal death, working for ten thousand years cannot bring up one of our sins forgiven and forgotten and sunken into the depths of the sea. When a sin is parfoned, it is gone out of the memory, it is gone out of existence. "Their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more."

From other tragedies men have come away exhausted and nervous and sleepless; but there is one tragedy that soothes and calms and saves. Calvary was the stage on which it was enacted, the curtain of the night falling at midnoon was the drop scene the thunder of falling rocks the orchestra, argels in t phant thought!

If you go through the picture galleries of Versailles you will find a great change there. I said to a friend who had been through those galleries, "Are they as they were before the French war?" and I was told there was a great change there; that all that multitude of pictures which represented Napoleonic triumphs had been taken away, and in the frames were other pictures representative of Germanic success and victory. Oh, that all the scenes of Satanic triumph in our world might be blotted out, and that the whole world might be a picture gallery representing the triumphant Jesus! Down with the monarchy of transpression! Up with the Monarchy of our King! Hail! Jesus, Hail!

But I must give you the second cause of Paul's exhilaration. If Christ had stayed in that grave we never would have gotten out of it. The grave would have been dark and dismal as the Conciergerie during the Reign of Terror, where the carts came up only to take the victims out to the scaffold. I do not wonder that the ancients tried by embalment of the body to resist the dissolution of death.

I do not wonder that the ancients tried by embalment of the body to resist the dissolution of death.

The grave is the darkest, deepest, ghastliest chasm that was ever opened if there be no light from the resurrection throne streaming into it; but Christ stayed in the tomb all Friday night and all Saturday, all Saturday night and a part of Sunday morning. He stayed so long in the tomb that he might fit it for us when we go there. He tarried two whole nights in the grave, so that he saw how important it was to have plenty of light, and he has flooded it with his own glory.

It is early Sunday morning, and we start up to find the grave of Christ. We find the morning sun gilding the dew, and the shrubs are sweet as the foot crushes them. What a beautiful place to be buried in! Wonder they did not treat Christ as well when he was alive as they do now that he is dead. Give the military salute to the soldiers who stand guarding the dead. But hark to the crash! an earthquake! The soldiers fall back as though they were dead, and the stone at the door of Christ's tomb spins down the hill, flung by the arm of an angel. Come forth. O Jesus! from the darkness into the sunlight. Come forth, and breathe the perfume of Joseph's garden.

Christ comes forth radiant, and as he christ comes forth radiant, and as he steps out of the excavation of the rock I look down into the excavation, and in the distance I see others coming hand-in-hand, and troop after troop, and I find it is a long procession of the precious dead. Among them are our loved ones—father, mother, brother, sister, companion, children—comparion, children—comparion. from are our loved ones—father, mother, brother, sister, companion, children—coming up out of the excavation of the rock until the last one has stepped out into the light, and I am bewildered, and I cannot understand the scene until I see Christ wave his hand over the advancing procession from the rock, and hear him cry: "I am the resurrection and the life; he who believeth in me, though he were dead.

wave his hand over the advancing procession from the rock, and hear him cry: "I am the resurrection and the life; he who believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live." And then I notice that the long dirge of the world's woe suddenly stops at the archangelic shout of "Come forth!"

Oh! my friends, if Christ had not broken out of it. It would have been another case of Charlotte Corday attempting to slay a tyrant, herself slain. It would have been another case of John Brown attempting to free the slaves, himself hung. It would have been another case of John Brown attempting to free the slaves, himself hung. It would have been Boath and Christ in a grapple, and Death the victor. The black flag would have been floating on all the graves and mausoleums of the dead, and hell would have conquered the forces of heaven, and captured the ramparts of God, and Satan would have come to coronation in the palaces of heaven, and it would have been devils on the throne and sons of God in the dungeon.

No! no! no! When that stone was rolled from the door of Christ's grave, it was hurled with such a force that it crashed in all the grave doors of Christendom, and now the tomb is only a bower where God's children take a siesta, an afternoon nap, to wake up in mighty invigoration. "Christ is risen." Hang that lamp among all the tombs of my dead. Hang it over my own resting place. Christ's suffering is ended; His work is done. The darkest Friday afternoon of the world's history becomes the brightest Sunday morning of its resurrection joy. The Good Friday of bitter memories becomes the Easter of glorious transformation and resurrection.

Ye mourning saints, dry every tear For your departed Lord.

Ye mourning saints, dry every tear For your departed Lord, Behold the place: he is not here; The tomb is all unbarred. The gates of death were closed in vain, The Lord is risen, he lives again.

The gates of clear were closed in value. The Lord is risen, he lives again.

I give you the third cause of Paul's exhilaration. We honor the right hand more than we do the left. If in accident or battle we must lose one hand, let it be the left. The left hand being nearer the heart, we may not do much of the violent work of life with that hand without physical danger; but he who has the right arm in full play has the mightiest of all earthly weapons. In all ages and in all languages the right hand is the symbol of strength and power and honor. Hiram sat at the right hand of Solomon. Then we have the term, "He is a right-hand man." Lafayette was Washington's right-hand man; Marshal Ney was Napoleon's right-hand man; and now you have the meaning of Paul when he speaks of Christ who is at the right hand of God.

That means he is the first guest of heaven. He has a right to sit there. The hero of the universe! Count his wounds; two in the feet, two in the hands, one in the side—five wounds. O you have counted wrong. These are not half the wounds. Look at the severer wounds in the temples; each thorn an excruciation.

If a bero comes hack from battle, and wrong. These are not hair the woulds.

Look at the severer wounds in the temples;
each thorn an excruciation.
If a hero comes back from battle, and he takes off his hat or rolls up his sleeve, and shows you the scar of a wound gotten at Ball's Bluff, or at South Mountain, you stand in admiration at his heroism and patriotism; but if Christ should make conspicuous the five wounds gotten on Calvary—that Waterloo of all the ages—he would display only a small part of his wornds. Wounded all over, let him sit at the right hand of God. He has a right to sit there. By the request of God, the Father, and the unanimous suffrage of all heaven, let Him sit there. In the grand review, when the redeemed pass by in cohorts of splendor, they will look at him and shout "victory."
The oldest inhabitant of heaven never saw a grander day than the one when

The oldest inhabitant of heaven never saw a grander day than the one when Christ took his place on the right hand of God. Hosanna! With lips of clay I may not appropriately utter it, but let the martyrs under the altar throw the cry to the elders under the throne and they can toos it to the choir on the sea of glass until all heaven shall lift it—some on point of scepter and some on string of harp and some on the tip of the green branches. Hosanna! Hosanna!

A fourth cause of Paul's exhilaration:

Hosanna! Hosanna!

A fourth cause of Paul's exhilaration:
After a clergyman had preached a sermon in regard to the glories of heaven and the splendors of the scene an aged woman said,
"If all that is to go on in heaven, I don't know what will become of my poor head."
Oh! my friends, there will be so many things going on in heaven I have sometimes wondered if the Lord would not forget you and me!

Perhaps Paul said sometimes: "I wonder God does not forget me down here in An-

get you and me!

Perhaps Paul said sometimes: "I wonder God does not forget me down here in Antioch and in the prison and in the ship-wreck. There are so many sailors, so many wayfarers, so many prisoners, so many heart-broken men," says Paul, "perhaps God may forget me. And then I am so vile a sinner. How I whipped those Christians! with what vengeance I mouated that cavalry horse and dashed up to Damascus! Oh! it will take a mighty attorney to plead my cause and get me free." But just at that moment there came in upon Paul's soul something mightier than the surges that dashed his ship into Melita, swifter than the horse he rode to Damascus. It was the swift and overwhelming thought of Christ's intercession.

My friends, we must have an advocate. A poor lawyer is worse than no lawyer at all. We must have one who is able successfully to present our cause before God. Where is he? Who is he? There is only one advocate in all the universe that can plead our cause before God in the great tribunal.

Sometimes in earthly courts attorneys can plead our cause before God in the great tribunal.

Sometimes in earthly courts attorneys have specialties, and one man succeeds better in patent cases, another in insurance cases, another in criminal cases, another in land cases, another in will cases and his success generally depends upon his sticking to the specialty. I have to tell you that Christ can do many things; but it seems to me that His specialty is to take the bad case of the sinner ard plead it before God until he gets eternal acquittal. Oh! we must have him for our advocate.

But what plea can be make? Sometimes an attorney in court will plead the innocence of the prisoner. That would be inappropriate for us; we are all guilty! Unclean! unclean! Christ, our advocate, will not plead our innocence. Sometimes the attorney in court tries to prove an alibi. He says: "This prisoner was not at the scene; he was in some other place at the time." Such a plea will not do in our case. The Lord found us in all our sins, and in the very place of our iniquity. It is impossible to prove an alibi. Sometimes an attorney will plead the insanity of the prisoner, and say he is irresponsible on that account. That plea will never do in our case. We sinned against light, against knowledge, against the dictates of our own consciences; we knew what we were doing. What then shall the plea be?

The plea for our eternal deliverance will be Christ's own martyrdom. He will say: "Look at all these wounds. By all these sufferings I demand the rescue of this man from sin and death and hell. Constable, knock off the shackles—let the prisoner go free." "Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea, rather that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us." But why all this gladness on the faces of these sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty? I know what you are thinking of. A Savior dead, a Savior interceding. "What," say you, "is all that for me?" All! all! Never let me hear you complaining about anything again. With your pardoned sin behind you, and a successful Christ pleading above you, and a glorious heaven before you, how can you be despondent about anything?
"But," says some man in the audience, "all that is very good and very true for pondent about anything?

"But," says some man in the audience,
"all that is very good and very true for those who are inside the kingdom; but how about those of us who are outside?" Then
I say, come into the kingdom, come out of about those of us who are outside? Then I say, come into the kingdom, come out of the prison house into the glorious sunlight of God's mercy and pardon, and come now. It was in the last days of the reign of terror, the year 1793. Hundreds and thousands had perished under the French guillotine. France groaned with the tyrannies of Robespierre and the Jacobin Club. The last group of sufferers had had their locks shorn by Monchotte, the prison barber, so that the neck might be bare to the keen krife of the guillotine. The carts came up to the prison the poor wretches were placed in the carts and driven off toward the scaffold; but while they were going toward the scaffold there was an outcry in the street, and then the shock of firearms and then the cry, "Robespierre has fallen! Down with the Jacobins! Let France be free!" But the armed soldiers rode in upon these rescuers, so that the poor wretches in the carts were taken on to the scaffold, and horribly died. But that very night these monsters of persecution were selzed, and Robespierre perished under the very guillotine that he had reared for others, all France clapping their hands with loy as his head rolled into the executioner's basket. Then the axes of the excited-populace were heard pounding against the gates of the prison, and the poor prisoners walked out free. My friends, sin is the worst of all Robespierre's; it is the tyrant of tyrants; it has built a prison house for your soul; it plots our death; it has shorn us for the sacrifice, but, blessed be God, this morning we hear the axes of God's gracious deliverance pounding against the door of our prison. Deliverance has come. Light breaks through all the wards of the prison. Revolution! Revolution! "Where sin abounded, grace does much more abound, that whereas sin reigned unto death, even so grace may reign unto eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." he prison house into the glorious sunlight

When the kidneys become diseased and fail to discharge their important functions, the skin, liver, bowels and lungs undertake the work of elimination—a work these organs are unfitted to perform.

It is readily understood that with this unnatural condition of things the whole body will soon become diseased, and death, alas! will too often follow.

'Keep the kidneys in good tone and you will preserve your health" is a motto worth remembering.

MURDER AND ARSON

Will Harris Stabled His Wife and a Man and Burned His House.

THE MAN IS NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE.

The Desperado Was Drenk and On a Ram page-The Hounds Put Upon His Trail-A Reward Offered.

Will Harris, a negro, about thirty years of age, raised a great excitement at East Lake Saturday night, and may have to answer to a charge of murder. He certainly will have to answer to arson, unless he encouded in keeping out of the way. less he succeeds in keeping out of the way of the officers.

Saturday night he was on a rampage He cut his wife and a negro, named Jack-son, and then set fire to his house and burned it down. His wife is seriously wounded. Jackson is not expected to live, and the house is in ashes. Harris ran off and has not been captured, but the police think that he will be caught.

Harris is a laborer, working in DeKalb county. Saturday night he came into Atlanta and got full of whisky. He and his wife and Jackson started out home together. He was boisterous and was put off the East Lake electric car at Butler street. That made him mad. He waited for the next car. When it came along he boarded it and behaved himself. On reaching his home, he found his wife and Jackson sitting out on the front talking and waiting him to come. Harris abused his wife and assaulted her with a knife. Jackson tried to protect her. Harris stabbed both several times. He cut Jackson in the back, sinking the knife up to the hilt three times below the shoulder blade. He cut a finger off of his wife's

To make a thorough job of it, Harris took a can of kerosene and poured the oil over the house. Then he set fire to it, hoping that it would burn his wife and Jackson. Two white men tried to arrest Harris. He ran off. One fired six shots at him with a pistol and a Mr. Rogers emptied both barrels of a shotgun after him. Harris went all the faster.

Rogers went to Decatur and notified the sheriff. The dogs were obtained from the chaingang, and about midnight a posse reached the house and began to search for Harris. The last seen of him he was coming toward the city. The dogs did not trail him at all well and the hunt had to be given up without them. It was thought that Harris got the kerosene on his shoes and this may have been the reason the dogs would not frail. Word was sent to the city police and they are keeping a lookout for the escape against whom the charge of arson has been entered. His wife and Jackson are in a critical condition and no cases have been made on their account, as the authorities are waiting to see how they come out.

He is described as having a brown skin.

they come out.

He is described as having a brown skin, weighs 160 pounds, heavy mustache, scar over one eye. He formerly lived on Butler street branch. A reward of $25 is offered by William Hatch, of Decatur.
